Tiny box circumvents billing system

Toll call ripoff costing millions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Beep."

A tiny box that emits this sound at a precise electronic level is being sold on the American black market —and the telephone company says the device is costing it millions of dollars in lost toll call billings.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Company randomly monitored more than 30 million phone calls between 1965 and 1970 to stop the box's use by illegal callers.

AT&T attorney H.W. William Caming told a House judiciary subcommittee Tuesday that despite the phone company's efforts, illegal toll-free calls "continues at flood levels today."

Appearing before the Civil Liberties Subcommittee, Caming showed how the box —no larger than a pack of cigarettes —works.

When a white button is pressed, a beeped signal "seizes" a telephone line and allows the caller to make long distance calls while circumventing the phone company's automatic billing system.

The boxes cost a dollar or less to produce. They are selling on the black market at up to $3,500 and are used by racketeers and unethical businessmen, Caming said.

He estimated the devices have cost the phone company about $1 million in lost billings, and this figure represented "merely that portion of the iceberg visable to the eye.

"The actual losses currently being sustained may be 10 to 20 times as great as our provable losses," he said.

Caming testified that 30 million calls were electronically "scanned" and more than 1.5 million of these were monitored with recording devices in an attempt to uncover fraudulent uses. The monitoring uncovered about 25,000 illegal calls, he said.

He said the monitoring of actual voices was halted in 1970 when the phone company developed more sophisticated equipment to detect the devices.

Caming denied that AT&T violated any privacy laws in its monitoring program and said the company had kept the Justice Department informed of its activities.

Tornadoes hit South; 1 dead, many injured

By United Press International

A "hell of a tornado" steamrolled a central Georgia town Tuesday, crushing homes and businesses and leaving a trail of death and destruction, and floodwaters chased scores of Alabamans from their homes.

A storm system touched off tornadoes in portions of the southland.

One twister left at least one person dead and more than 100 injured in its rampage through the downtown district of Fort Valley, Ga. Authorities said 14 persons were seriously injured.

Emergency crews searched through a tangle of crumbling buildings, uprooted trees and sparking downed power lines early today for dead and injured.

"We've got numerous houses down and they're still digging in to see if we've got any people there," a Peach County Hospital spokesman said.

Police said some 50 homes and downtown businesses were damaged by the twister and some 15 to 20 buildings were "completely gone."

Most of the town was without lights, water or gas early today. Service crews worked round-the-clock to repair damage.

Civil defense authorities reported 20 to 30 downtown buildings were hit while 25 homes were either damaged or destroyed.

Mayor Paul Reshling called it "one hell of a tornado" and estimated that 60 to 80 per cent of the downtown area was hit.

Another twister swirled over Williston, S. C., demolishing the one story brick home of the James Anderson family. Authorities said Anderson, his wife Mary and their three children suffered minor injuries.

The storm moved part of the house off its foundation and blew the other half away. The twister, which touched down five times in a 12-mile area, destroyed two automobiles and one pickup truck parked in the yard.

Another twister hit Griffin, Ga., but no injuries were reported.

Rain swelled streams and triggered flooding from the southeastern Plains to the southern Atlantic Coast. Floodwaters blocked off some roads.

Flooding forced dozens of persons from their homes near Montgomery, Ala., and the American Red Cross set up temporary shelters.

25% of industrial output

Third world countries demand a bigger share

ALGIERS (UPI) — The developing nations, inspired by the new power of the oil bloc, today demanded an overhaul of the world's economy to give them a 25 per cent slice of industrial output.

Delegates from 104 developing nations ended a four-day meeting of the U.N. Industrial Development Organization this morning by calling for a radical transformation of the world economy.

The delegates approved an "action program" aimed at increasing the developing nations' share of world industrial output from seven per cent to 25 per cent by the end of the century.

The program, which calls for an eight per cent annual increase in industrial growth among the developing nations, will be officially unveiled during a March 12-26 UNIDO meeting in Peru.

Many delegates admitted the program has no chance of total success but others said the West would be wrong to dismiss it as just another plea for a handout.

Some delegates said the rest of the Third World —the developing nations —may learn a lesson from the success of the oil-producing nations in boosting petroleum prices.

The delegates said nations producing other raw materials may form oil-type cartels to increase the prices of their products in the same way.

"I won't see any progress in my lifetime," a middle-aged but disillusioned Latin American sighed.

But another delegate said the rising power of the oil producers gives the developing nations new clout. "A lot depends on this solidarity and the pressure we can exert through it," he said.

"We also have now pressure in the example of the stronger developing countries' willingness to help the weaker ones," he said.

The developing nations want better aid terms, formation of cartels, nationalization of foreign investments, protection of exports, regulation of multinational firms and building of basic industries.

Valley may get light showers

A rainstorm moving across Northern and Central California may bring some light showers to the valley Thursday, the weatherman said today.

The storm is slowly moving southeast into Nevada, and its wing may extend to the Southland, bringing high clouds and precipitation.

It is expected to drop temperatures about eight degrees. The weather forecast calls for fair today with a high of 68, partly cloudy and possible showers Thursday with a high of 60. Tonight's low is expected to drop to 37.

VICTIMS AIRLIFTED FROM CRASH SITE

A rescue helicopter lifts one of four Marines killed Tuesday when two giant Marine cargo helicopters collided during a training mission. One of the helicopters exploded after the collision over Modjeska Canyon in the Santa Ana Mountains, but the other was brought to a safe landing.

4 Marines die in helicopter collision

EL TORO MARINE AIR STATION, Calif. (UPI) — Two CH53 Sea Stallions, biggest helicopters in the Marine Corps fleet, collided in flight Tuesday, demolishing one and killing its four crewmen.

The other craft, its rear stabilizing roto damaged, spiraled down to a crash landing on a hilltop. The four men in it were bruised, but not seriously hurt.

The helicopters, used as troop carriers, were on maneuvers in good weather over the Santa Ana mountains in eastern Orange County when they collided at about 800 feet over Modjeska Canyon.

Ranch hand Rusty Richards, 41, said he heard the crash looked up, and saw "the sky was full of debris. I couldn't see the main section of one of the helicopters at all. The whole thing was just falling out of the sky."

Debris from the demolished chopper was spread for half a mile at the head of Modjeska Canyon.

Three of the crewmen died in the crash. Capt. James L. Watson Jr., 31, Irvine, Calif., died during surgery at Community Hospital in Mission Viejo.

The other three were not identified, pending notification of relatives. The Marine Corps said two were from California and one from Nebraska.

The cause of the collision was under investigation.

The helicopters were from Training Squadron 301 of the Third Marine Air Wing stationed at Santa Ana.

Prof's formula for relaxed living; limit brainwork to four hours a day

SAN JOSE, Calif. (UPI) — To relieve tension and anxiety in a competitive world, "brainwork" should be limited to four hours a day.

That's part of Prof. Albert Porter's formula for relaxed living.

Porter, who teaches business at San Jose State University, says many executives cannot see the danger signals of a society rooted in a strive-to-win philosophy.

Pressures often increase to such extremes as to cause heart attacks or suicide attempts, says Porter, who has interviewed hundreds of top business executives.

Many so-called workaholics, he said, exhibit common traits such as treating their family in a derogatory way or as an aside.

To combat pressures, he believes weekends should be strictly devoted to the family and that strict attention be given to health. Backaches and headaches are warning signals that should be heeded.

He also suggests ventilating tensions by a stimulating extracurricular activity —such as sking.

If business pressure becomes excruciating, he said, psychiatric help should be obtained.

Demos seek approach to energy program

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate and House Democrats met jointly for several hours today in an attempt to forge a common approach to the nation's energy problems.

Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I., said the Democratic economic and energy policy committees from the Senate and House — meeting together for the first time —agreed to get together again Tuesday.

He predicted it would take several weeks before the program is fully fashioned.

The meeting was held as President Ford told a group of Southern senators that he is willing to compromise on energy policy just as soon as the Democrats can come up with their own proposals.

The Senate was to vote today on a bill delaying Ford's three-stage oil import fee increase for 90 days.

Ford is resigned to congressional approval of the 90-day suspension, but has launched a last-minute attempt to round up a sufficient number of votes to sustain a veto of the legislation.

Sen. J. Bennett Johnston, D-La., one of those who met with Ford this morning at a White House breakfast, said the main theme of the meeting was coming up with a solution to the energy crisis that is acceptable to both the White House and Congress.

"The whole tone of the meeting was one of compromise and conciliation," Johnston said. He said Ford told the senators we want to "work this thing out" through a compromise.

On Tuesday, Senate Democratic leaders agreed on an energy plan and were hoping for an overwhelming vote against the oil tariff bill.

In Chile

Echeverria flays U.S. 'meddling'

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexican President Luis Echeverria has accused the United States of "intolerable" intervention in the 1973 overthrow of the Marxist regime in Chile.

Addressing a fervent crowd at the opening session of an "International Commission to Investigate the Crimes of the Chilean Junta," Echeverria shouted:

"Intervention has been proven, recognized and even seriously criticized by very high ranking personalities and institutions of a country that adopted, against Chile, forms of meddling, which are intolerable."

An estimated 3,000 sympathizers from 35 countries packed the marble-walled Fine Arts Palace in downtown Mexico City Tuesday to hear Echeverria's emotional keynote address.

The crowd hissed and booed at two large effigies of the Chilean military leaders who deposed the late President Salvador Allende, one of Echeverria's closest friends, in September, 1973.

Allende committed suicide or was killed in the coup.

"Viva Chile!" the spectators shouted. "Viva Allende!"

Allende's widow, Hortensia Bussi, was at Echeverria's side for the opening session. The crowds then moved to the nearby Del Prado Hotel, where the "trial" itself got underway in the red-carpeted Versailles suite.

Cite insecurity, fear as jobless ranks grow

Auto leaders ask urgent attack on unemployment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chairman Henry Ford II of the Ford Motor Co. and United Autoworkers President Leonard Woodcock today urged Congress and the White House to attack unemployment first, then worry about other national problems.

Woodcock predicted unemployment may climb between 9 and 10 per cent and that up to 20 million Americans could be forced out of jobs at one time or another this year and during the 1976 bicentennial celebration. The current unemployment rate is 8.2 per cent—an estimated 7.6 million persons out of work.

Both Ford and Woodcock told Congress' Joint Economic Committee steps need to be taken immediately to curb unemployment, which has struck especially hard at the sprawling auto industry.

"Fine speeches next year about how our nation is fulfilling the high principles embodied in our Declaration of Independence and our Constitution will be a fraud and a deceit," said Woodcock.

"This insecurity and fear that one's livelihood as well as one's sense of dignity and social usefulness may be suddenly taken away can eat away at a marriage, at family hopes and plans, like a vicious acid."

Ford said he had never felt "so uncertain and so troubled" in 30 years as a businessman.

He said that Americans who can afford to spend have stopped because of fears over the economy and that businesses are cutting capital spending because profits are too low.

On top of this, he said, the public daily faces bickering between President Ford and the Congress over what to do, and yet no one seems to be doing anything.

"Day by day the problems mount and nothing is decided," Ford said. "People are rapidly coming to the conclusion that nobody knows what to do, nobody is steering, the problems are running away with us, and the country is headed straight for disaster."

Ford said the best place to find a common ground is in the area of unemployment.

Americans "will not and should not accept policies that would lead to nearly 7 per cent unemployment as late as 1978 as the administration has projected," he said.

Ford said reducing unemployment must take precedence because the current 8.2 per cent unemployment rate "can be reduced and because the human effects of unemployment are so devastating."

"In my 30 years as a businessman, I have never before felt so uncertain and so troubled about the future of both my country and my company," Ford said, adding industry car sales have fallen off drastically and unemployment in the auto industry hit 24 per cent in January.

He said there is no chance for sustained improvement in auto sales until consumer confidence improves and the economy begins to recovery.

Pomona council

Utility tax takes beating but stays on the books

Pomona's utility tax, termed a "political football" by one councilman, was thoroughly kicked around Tuesday night by the Pomona city Council with no results.

In a series of actions that led nowhere, the council finally decided to leave the present utility tax exemption unchanged, despite the efforts of Mayor Ray Lepire and Councilman Georgia Grove.

Both had sought to raise the current exemption level of $4,000 in gross income to $6,000 for persons over 62 years of age or the handicapped. Qualifying persons would then pay no utility tax, a six per cent charge added to utility bills in the city and which accounts for eight per cent of all city revenues.

Opposed to the move were Councilmen Benjamin Ochoa and Charles Bader, both stating that the exemption should not be changed until some new sources of revenue were found.

The swing vote in the unusual voting was cast by Councilman Adrian Wright, who first voted against City Administrator Jerrold Gonce's recommendation that the exemption be unchanged, and then against Mrs. Grove's motion that it be changed.

The council then voted to restudy the matter during the preparation of the next city budget.

Bader termed the entire matter a "political football" and said the city couldn't afford to cut revenues in one area without taking the time to find money somewhere else or propose budget cuts to make up the difference.

In other business, the council voted to reduce the speed limit on North San Antonio Avenue from 40 to 35 miles per hour. The action came after Mrs. William Hill, a resident of the area, presented a petition calling for the reduction.

The petition was signed by more than 100 residents and noted the danger faced by school children who must cross the street daily to attend San Antonio Elementary School.

The council approved a request from the Greater Pomona Housing Development Corporation that a "Retirement Housing Ballot Proposition" be placed on the city's April 15 ballot.

The organization proposes to build a retirement complex of not more than 180-units in the area of Gibbs, San Francisco, Pearl and Palomares Streets.

Alarming increase at Claremont High

Board moves to curb class-cutting

Such an alarming number of Claremont High School students are cutting one or more classes a day that the Claremont Unified School District board Tuesday night approved the hiring of two community aides to notify parents by telephone of the truancies.

The proposal for the hiring of the aides at a cost of $1,000 for a trial period of six weeks came from Jack M. Smith, district coordinator of student services, and from Mrs. Diane Stowell, assistant principal-student services at Claremont High.

District Supt. Richard Kirkendall said that the program could be paid through partial funding of the county-funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act money and decreased unexcused all-day absence by students through state-funded average daily attendance (ADA) money.

Kirkendall said that a decrease of four to five students absent a day would pay for the program completely.

Kirkendall said that an extensive review of records of the past three weeks revealed "an unacceptably large number" of high school students cutting one or more classes a day.

He stressed that although the number of cuts was too large even before the district was forced to discontinue the postcard home notification, the number of cuts had increased even more.

Objective of the program is to reduce by the end of a six-week trial period the number of students by 50 per cent.

Two weeks would be spent in assessing the results, evaluating the program, and making recommendations concerning continuance or termination.

Every evening, the two community aides would telephone parents of students who had missed classes that day, would report the absences, inquire as to the reason, and verify legal absences.

A parent, Mrs. Janet Phares, stressed that many parents are not aware that the district is penalized through unexcused absences because the district receives state funds through a formula predicated on average daily attendance (ADA) which includes excused absences.

Claremont High Principal Alex Hughes said that Claremont High's ADA was "exemplary," among neighboring high schools and averages 28 unexcused absences a day out of 2,200 students.

Class cuts, though, reach into the hundreds a day.

Chaffey board asked to delay cutback plan

The Certificated Employes Negotiating Council (CENC) Tuesday night asked Chaffey school board to not implement budget cuts approved at its last meeting until a blue ribbon committee studies the situation.

CENC's request was presented by Robert Haage, chairman, and accepted for consideration by the board.

At its Feb. 3 meeting, the Chaffey board approved a contingency plan eliminating 62 existing teaching jobs, 20 per cent of the high school team sports program and cutting into the budget by $2 million.

This plan is to be put into effect if the March 4 tax override election fails so a balanced 1975-76 budget may be presented.

Haage asked that the board organize a blue ribbon committee, consisting of school and community representatives, to study the budget and attempt to find a way to continue to fund current programs even if the tax election fails.

As Proposition C on the March 4 ballot, Chaffey district is proposing a three-step increase in its general purpose tax rate which would amount of 54 cents per $100 of assessed valuation in 1975-76, 70 cents in 1976-77 and 83 cents in 1977-78.

If the voters approve the proposal, the $2 million cuts will be unnecessary.

The board authorized the administration to apply for federal funding of $70,000 over a two-year period to allow expansion of the district's career education program, and for a $500 state grant to match district funds to build and equip a greenhouse at Alta Loma High School.

A 1975-76 budget calendar was approved calling for a preliminary budget to be presented to the board on May 5, a tentative budget on June 16, a publication budget of July 21 and public hearings and adoption of a final budget on Aug. 4.

The 1975-76 budget allotments to the individual high schools, showing one amount under the regular allotment and a second should the election fail and the contingency plan go into effect, were approved.

These are monies for equipment, supplies, travel, book replacement and in-service training and are figured on a per student basis. The five regular high schools, the continuation high school and the adult education school share $718,200 under the regular allotment plan, and $504,455 under the contingency plan.

Chino heeds grievance

Councilmen to end double fee on corner lots

Chino city councilmen, calling it an "unfair" policy, Tuesday night moved to end double fees for water and sewer connections on corner lots.

The action came on the heels of a protest from the Free Methodist church, which has property at Russell Avenue and Park Place.

Ernest W. Morrison, church pastor, asked for "relief" concerning the connection charges. "Inasmuch as the church parsonage will be located on the corner and will be only using and connecting to one entrance of the street, we request assessment on one street only rather than both," he said.

Councilmen approved first reading on changes in the sewer and water ordinance that would eliminate connection charges being assessed on both frontages of corner lots.

John Gerardi, the city's director of public works, admitted the present policy is not "equitable." A corner property receives no more benefit from a sewer or water connection than a property located in mid-block."

The council, following Gerardi's recommendtion, decided to assess connection fees only on the long frontage of a corner parcel.

Also, on parcels of irregular shape, instead of the current practice of fees based on street frontage, councilmen moved to give the city engineer latitude in deciding equitable charges.

Gerardi explained that with some irregular parcels, the frontage might be 50 feet, and the rear property line 150 feet, or vice versa. Owners of properties with narrow frontages benefit under present policy, while those with wide frontages suffer.

Lengths of frontages are used in computing fees, Gerardi added.

In other action, the council allocated $4,442.66 from city reserves for continuation of the police helicopter program to June 30, 1975. Fontana is the only city participating in the area program that has yet to approve additional funding for an extension.

Chino Police Chief Frank Meehan said the helicopter has provided valuable assistance to police efforts, "in many felony arrests and has responded to 1,773 called for services. Among these were many burglary and robbery assists as well as seven major searches for lost children."

Upland reluctantly okays another service station

While expressing concern that there were already too many service stations in Upland, the Upland City Council granted the request of Jim Kelber, 1013 W. Holt Blvd., Ontario, to establish an automotive service station in an M1 (light manufacturing zone).

The station is proposed on a one-half acre site at the southwest corner of Mountain Avenue and Ninth Street which the Kelber firm has owned for 10 years.

There was no opposition from the audience. Mike Kelber, son of the owner, presented architect's drawings of the proposed station which has three service islands and landscaping.

Council members agreed in principle with a proposed amendment setting a 1984 deadline for the amortization of noncontorming billboards in the city but questioned certain wording. Members voted to return the proposed amendment to the Planning Commission for re-wording.

A certified public accountant, Walter F. Reardon, 129 E. 17th St., was appointed to the Housing Authority Board to complete the term of the Rev. Raymond L. Wirth who resigned.

Face jail term if they do

Judge forbids in-laws to talk to couple

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — It may be a bit extreme, but Dr. Lauris Jones and his wife Constance have protection that other couples with in-law problems can envy: A court order threatening to send Mrs. Jones' parents to jail if they ever say a word to the Jones' again.

Superior Court Judge Harry Rupp Tuesday sentenced Mr. and Mrs. William Laing of Corona del Mar, Calif., to five days in jail for trying to have the marriage of their 26-year-old daughter annulled.

He suspended the sentence, saying "I am not going to send you to jail now, but you are going to have it hanging over your heads . . . You have got to make up your minds to leave your daughter alone and let her live her own life." Laing was also fined $400 for contempt of court for harassing his daughter in violation of a previous order.

The Laings had themselves named guardians at law for their daughter last November, alleging that she had been hypnotized by her husband, duped into marriage and "controlled by lack of nutrition." Then acting as her legal guardians, they petitioned to have her marriage annuled.

"We were shaken when we were handed the annulment papers," Mrs. Jones complained to the judge, who had previously ordered the Laings to leave their daughter and her husband alone, and not to write or speak to them.

Jones, 37, is professor of music at Occidental College, conductor of the San Gabriel Valley Symphonic Orchestra and minister of music at the First Congregational Church of Los Angeles. He met his wife when she was one of his students.

Mrs. Jones denied her parents charges that she was hypnotized and starved into marriage, telling the judge she was "in perfect health" and "a competent adult, happily married and wishes to remain so."

Jones won $5,000 damages in a judgment against the Laings last summer. They said they must sell their home to pay the judgment to the son-in-law they cannot speak to.

Guarantee Israel security, Sadat tells U.S.

PARIS (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew home today from a mission to the Middle East and Europe that brought an Egyptian proposal for an American guarantee of Israel's security and hopes for eventual lowering of oil prices.

A senior American official in the Kissinger party said the United States is considering an Egyptian suggestion that it guarantee Israel's security against an Arab attack while peace talks are in progress.

The Egyptian suggestion was disclosed by President Anwar Sadat in the wake of his recent Middle East talks with Kissinger in Cairo.

Sadat's demand was for the United States to serve as guarantor against an Arab attack in exchange for an Israeli assurance that it would carry out some withdrawals from territory it seized during the 1967 war.

The ranking American official said the United States has as yet made no decision on Sadat's suggestion and would study it carefully. He did not spell out details of the proposal or say whether it would mean active U.S. military intervention in the Middle East.

In Tel Aviv, government sources said Israel would not reject outright the proposal for a formal defense treaty with the United States but would be wary of entrusting its security solely to another power. They said Kissinger did not mention the proposal during his visit to Israel.

The sources said that though proposals for a formal defense treaty could be considered, they would be examined cautiously. They cited U.S. defense pacts with South Vietnam, Taiwan and Turkey as exampies and said the history of such accords did not inspire confidence.

A defense pact of a similar nature with Washington probably would encounter wariness from the American and especially the Israeli public because "Israel would have to stake its security in the main on such a guarantee, given the past experience," one source said.

Kissinger wound up his tour by breakfasting with French President Valery Giscard d'Estaing and visiting a U.S. bicentennial exhibition on Thomas Jefferson and Benjamin Franklin.

Asked by newsmen at the exhibition if the United States would participate in a Paris meeting called by Giscard d'Estaing to prepare for a world-wide energy conference, Kissinger said, "We're moving in that direction." At the airport, he said "good progress is being made."

In Europe Kissinger sought the support of America's allies for a long-term policy on energy that would lessen dependence on oil and eventually bring down prices.

He will return to the Middle East next month to try to conclude the agreement between Egypt and Israel on a new troop withdrawal in the Sinai desert east of the Suez Canal.

If unemployment stays high

Ford may come up with another tax cut in '76

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford is prepared to recommend another tax cut in 1976 if unemployment remains as high as predicted despite this year's tax rebate, his economic coordinator told the nation's governors today.

L. William Seidman, addressing the winter conference of governors, indicated the administration does not expect unemployment to average the 8 per cent next year that Ford forecast in his budget message.

"In 1976, obviously if the economy is not coming out on the basis that we expect, then there can be a tax cut that year," Seidman said.

Ford has proposed a one-time tax rebate this year of $16 billion —$12 billion for individuals and $4 billion for business. It is intended to stimulate the economy.

Seidman's remark was a first indication that the administration may propose further stimulation in 1976 if unemployment remains high.

The budget Ford submitted to Congress early this month projected an average unemployment rate of 8.1 per cent this year and 7.9 per cent next year but subsequently unemployment in January was reported to have gone to 8.2 per cent.

Seidman's remarks were in a response to Gov. Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin, a liberal Democrat, who said unemployment rates projected by the budget are "unacceptable."

"Our society is too brittle to sustain an average unemployment rate of 8 per cent which means the average for minorities will be twice that and the average for young members of minorities will be four times that amount," Lucey said.

Lucey urged that Ford and the Democratic leaders of Congress conduct a summit conference to work out a compromise on the nation's economic and energy problems.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton told Lucey that at a White House meeting this morning, Ford assured Southern senators he was ready to talk compromise with the House and Senate ad hoc committees of Democrats which are working out their party's alternative proposals on energy.

"He is totally flexible," Morton said of Ford, but added: "There are certain principles that have to be adhered to."

Seidman cautioned the governors against expecting a rapid recovery from the recession. He said that was beyond achievement no matter what policies are adopted. Even if a $75 billion tax cut were enacted this year, he said, unemployment would not be brought down to the 6 per cent level.

Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller told the governors today that big, costly, overlapping government —unaware of all it is doing —has led to a growing sense of frustration among Americans.

TORNADO AFTERMATH

Police and residents of Fort Valley, Ga., walk through litter-strewn streets following a tornado that hit the small southeastern town Tuesday. The twister left one dead and over 100 injured.

Rabbi invokes the 5th in nursing home fraud case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Bernard Bergman, a New York rabbi, invoked the 5th Amendment today when called before a Senate committee to testify on alleged fraud in the billion-dollar nursing home industry.

Bergman refused to answer questions on the grounds of possible self-incrimination after first pleading unsuccessfully against testifying on other constitutional grounds.

Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, chairman of the Senate Special Committee on Aging, refused to accept the New York nursing home operator's first objections but said he had no choice but to accept the refusal to answer under the 5th Amendment guarantee.

Bergman's lawyer, Nathan Lewin, said it would be "improper" and "simply unfair" to compel Bergman to testify because his operation of the Towers Nursing Home in New York is under criminal investigation by both state and federal agencies.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., even after Moss had accepted Bergman's refusal to testify, asked how Bergman had "parlayed" $30,000 into more than $24 million through operating nursing homes. Bergman declined to answer.

Bergman said he would "eventually provide the committee with all these answers" after criminal proceedings against him are resolved.

Percy was sharply critical of the nursing home's books, saying he had never seen a set of records as "illegible" and apparently intended to hide financial transactions. He said the books also included "secret markings" on certain entries.

The Illinois Republican said investigation was needed to determine whether Bergman had "amassed" his fortune by "taking it out of the hides of the aged people" who were in the homes operated by Bergman.

National debt limit higher than predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The national debt limit is going to be raised four times higher than had been anticipated two months ago. One senator said the $36 billion increase demonstrated the perilous state of the economy.

The government plans a massive borrowing program this year, one which should in itself seriously affect the economy. One possible effect is higher —or a continued high level —interest rate.

On Tuesday, the Senate voted 70 to 20 for the measure which would increase the nation's temporary debt limit to $531 billion, covering spending through June 30. The bill goes to the White House for President Ford's approval.

Valley resident is found dead in home

A 66-year-old Pomona man was found dead in his home late Tuesday morning when his business associate went there to see him, police reported.

The body of the victim, Otto H. Boyd, 785 E. Third St., was discovered in the bedroom of his home by Robert G. Montenez, 27, 4653 Phillips Blvd., Ontario.

Police said that death apparently was from natural causes, but an autopsy was ordered by coroner's deputies.

Police said that Boyd may have been dead for several days.

Officer thwarts theft of two autos

An Upland police officer thwarted an attempt by several men to steal two cars early this morning but was struck by one of the thieves who managed to escape.

Officer Frank Stratton reported that he saw a car without license plates fail to yield the right-of-way at Campus Avenue and Foothill Boulevard in Upland about 12:20 a.m. Stratton said as he turned on his red lights and siren another car pulled in front of him and sped off behind the first car.

Stratton said the second car pulled over near Myrtle and Guadalupe streets and he got out to write a traffic ticket. As the officer approached the driver he was struck in the face and the driver attempted to run.

Stratton said he grabbed the driver's jacket and a wrestling match ensued. Stratton said he was reaching for his mace when the driver managed to get away from him by running into a ditch.

Other officers came to assist Stratton but were unable to locate the driver of the one car. Later officers found the first car abandoned about a block away.

Both cars were reported stolen. Officers said this morning they are investigating the possibility that Stratton came upon the thieves moments after they had stole the vehicles.

A Chino woman told POMONA police Tuesday night that she surrendered cash to two men who seemed menacing after she was stranded on the Corona Expressway by a flat tire.

The victim, Anggie L. Kump, 33, said the men stopped as she was trying to change the wheel and asked if they could help. Then one asked if she had any money and the victim gave him $9 because she feared he had a weapon in his pocket. The pair drove away northbound on the expressway.

The victim said she was stranded for two hours near Dudley Street before another motorist stopped and changed the wheel for her.

Late Tuesday afternoon in POMONA, Dola B. Beckwith, 69, lost her purse to a thief who ran up behind her and grabbed it in the 300 block of Foothill Boulevard. The purse contained about $11. The victim lives nearby.

The man was described as a Negro about 18, 5 feet 10, weighing 135 pounds and wearing a red knit cap. He fled across a parking lot.

The condition of Michael Carl Follette, 18-year-old Pomonan shot by police as a robbery suspect in POMONA Saturday night, has improved at the jail ward of County-USC Medical Center.

Sheriff's deputies there said today that Follette was in satisfactory condition. His condition had been termed critical since he was wounded in the chest by Pomona Officer Patrick Tuley.

Meanwhile, investigators today planned to seek a robbery complaint against Follette at the Pomona office of the district attorney. The young man was accused of the holdup of Der Wienerschnitzel at 520 E. Mission Blvd. in which two shots were fired.

In ONTARIO Keith Thomas, 28, of 1303 N. Grove Ave. reported to police that he returned home from the beach Monday night and discovered burglars had broken into his apartment taking an estimated $3,700 in cash and other items.

Thomas told police the burglars made off with a diamond ring, a ruby ring, a portable color television set, a .30 caliber single-action revolver, a jewelry box, a wristwatch, and other items.

In SAN DIMAS, a thief broke into a railroad box car Tuesday and took a crated reclining chair at the rear of the Levitz Furniture Co. Inc., at 633 W. Bonita Ave., sheriff's deputies reported.

Store manager Robert T. Brown of Azusa said the recliner was valued at $112. The crate was found about 50 yards away, near a set of automobile tire tracks.

Also in SAN DIMAS, William A. Gaston, 87, told sheriff's deputies Tuesday that his somemade 16-foot fiberglass canoe, valued at $225, was stolen from a rack beside his garage. Gaston lives at 335 W. Fifth Avenue.

Egg rancher pleads guilty to $94,000 income tax evasion

A 54-year-old Chino egg rancher has pleaded guilty to a charge of failing to report over $84,000 in income during 1969.

Paul C. Furman of La Palma, a former city councilman in that city, made his plea before U.S. Dist. Court Judge Irving Hill in Los Angeles. Furman, the owner of a wholesale and retail egg business at 13610 Archibald Ave., Chino, as well as locations in La Palma and the greater Long Beach area, could be sentenced to a maximum of three years imprisonment and a $5,000 fine on the felony charge. He could also face a tax bill for the unreported income, penalties and interest.

Furman will return to the court on March 13 for sentencing.

Treasury Department Intelligence Agent Lee Bennett said the investigation into the case began in 1972 after an Internal Revenue Service agent audited Furman's 1968 and 1969 income tax returns.

Bennett said for several months agents kept Furman under surveillance and learned that in addition to delivering eggs to restaurants in the Long Beach area, Furman himself was delivering eggs to La Palma restaurants. The regular egg deliveries made by Furman's employes were recorded and receipts issued by the truck drivers.

Furman himself would give merchants and businessmen handwritten, unrecorded receipts, said Bennett.

Furman has been released on his personal recognizance pending sentencing.

No profits for Chrysler

It'll take more than rebates to turn auto industry around

DETROIT (UPI) — The parking lots are half filled at Chrysler world headquarters. It is the most evident sign the No. 3 auto worker is finding it difficult to recover from its record-breaking $52 million loss last year.

Chairman Lynn Townsend held out little hope Tuesday that the workers who once used the empty parking spaces will return to their jobs soon.

The company's 150,000 salaried and hourly work force has already been cut in half, and more cutbacks may be looming, Townsend indicated. He said there is no way Chrysler can be profitable in the first quarter and may suffer another big loss like the $73.5 million deficit in 1974's fourth quarter.

In the wake of those disastrous financial reports and a plan to put the company in the black even if the car market doesn't recover soon, Chrysler also may permanently close some of its assembly and manufacturing operations, Townsend said.

The cash rebates that Chrysler introduced have helped boost sales, Townsend said, but their high costs means no profit for the firm in the coming months. Whether they'll be extended past the Feb. 28 deadline hasn't been decided yet, he said, but he added it will take more than rebates to turn the auto industry around.

"I think the best thing that could be done half is have some real policy direction from Washington, a real energy policy and a real economic policy," Townsend said. "The American people have to think the government is in control of the situation.

"We need some leadership out of Washington and, in my opinion, we're not now getting it," he said.

As far as cutbacks are concerned, Townsend didn't hold out any hope that the 51,500 hourly workers and about half of the 39,000 salaried workers will be recalled soon. They had to go, he said to allow the company to cut its costs so it can become profitable even if domestic car sales drop as low as 6 million a year.

No dividend

NEW YORK (UPI)— Chrysler Corp. today omitted paying a dividend to stockholders for the first time since the Great Depression.

The dividend, which normally would have been 35 cents a share, would have been paid March 14 to shareholders of record Feb. 28.

Doctor convicted in abortion becoming a celebrity

BOSTON (UPI) — Dr. Kenneth C. Edelin, convicted of manslaughter for the death of an aborted fetus, was called to Boston City Hospital today to deliver a baby.

It was the first day back at work for the 36-year-old black obstetrician who was found guilty Saturday at the end of a controversial six-week trial.

Edelin was called to the hospital less than 24 hours after Judge James P. McGuire gave Edelin a light sentence of a year on probation and ordered it stayed pending appeal.

Edelin saw his private patient who was in labor at midmorning and planned to deliver the baby during the afternoon.

Edelin was greeted enthusiastically by colleagues at the hospital, where a large banner proclaimed: "Welcome back, Ken, Doctor Edelin."

The doctor learned Tuesday that he is becoming a celebrity.

Hundreds of telephone calls of support jammed the lines at the office of his attorney, William Homans, Tuesday. It has been that way since a predominently Roman Catholic jury of nine men and three women found the black obstetrician guilty Saturday of manslaughter in a legal abortion.

The calls came from those wishing to donate to the defense fund, and from attorneys suggesting angles for an appeal.

And they came from newsmen, radio stations and television networks anxious to speak with the handsome 36-year-old doctor, who sat through the six-week trial, the verdict and aftermath with little outward emotion.

Some doctors and hospital officials fear Edelin's conviction may result in strict restrictions or an outright ban on abortions after the first three months of pregnacy.

Experts say the conviction should have little or no effect on abortions performed in the first trimester of pregnance — during which about 90 per cent of all abortions are conducted.

The case's impact, the experts say, will be on abortions performed in the second trimester.

Some clinicians feel Edelin's conviction is an omen of law change concerning late-term abortions.

"We expect that second trimester abortions will become illegal," said Alana Probst, a spokesman for the Oakland Feminist Women's Health Center in Oakland, Calif., where 25 to 30 early-term abortions are performed each week.

"That's what happened in other countries where abortion is legal," she said. "Once population growth gets to about zero —and we're near that now — second term abortions became illegal. I think the Boston verdict is an early sign."

Dr. Frank Boehm, assistant professor of obstetrics and gynecology at Vanderbilt University, said the Edelin case has triggered a significant change in attitude among Nashville, Tenn., physicians.

"The attitude of doctors has changed and they are not performing abortions past 12 weeks of pregnancy except in special cases until the Supreme Court makes another ruling," Boehm said.

Cal State bus terminal is opened

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The final station along the $61 million San Bernardino Freeway busway —the $690,000 six-story Cal State Los Angeles Terminal — was officially opened Tuesday completing the 11 mile bus corridor.

The opening of the station marked the completion of the bus commuter project linking Los Angeles and El Monte through a median strip of the San Bernardino Freeway.

The station is intended to relieve some of the heavy congestion surrounding the Cal State L.A. campus, which is sometimes jammed with 30,000 vehicles.

The busway is the first project of its type in the United States, with new lanes built especially for buses.

The new station is one of three along the busway. The project's second terminal at County-USC Medical Center was recently opened and the first station —the $1 million El Monte terminus —has been serving passengers since mid-1973.

Since the busway's first section was opened two years ago, patronage has picked up from 2,500 daily commuters to 12,000, according to the Rapid Transit District's General Manager Jack R. Gilstrap.

Output smells at Russ factory

MOSCOW (UPI) — Moscow's New Dawn perfume factory has produced a scent to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the victory over fascism, the Tass news agency said today.

The perfume is going on the market under the trade mark "30", Tass said.

It joins another commemorative perfume called "EPAS," from the initials "experimental flight of Apollo and Soyuz." This marks the planned American-Soviet link-up in space next July.

Miss Newton-John won the award for favorite pop single, "I Honestly Love You," top country album, "Let Me Be There" and favorite female vocalist in both pop and country categories.

Miss Knight and the Pips won awards as the top group in both pop and soul categories, top soul album, "Imagination," and soul single, "Midnight Train to Georgia." Charlie Rich won three awards—top country male singer, best pop album and top country single, "The Most Beautiful Girl in the World." John Denver was best pop male singer and Stevie Wonder best male soul singer.

The awards, sponsored by the ABC-TV network, are determined by ballots cast by residents of 40,000 homes selected at random across the country.

Stepdad can't join her

Heidi becomes ill on Hawaii vacation

HONOLULU (UPI) — Cancer victim Heidi Biggs became "very sick" and was confined to her bed in a luxury hotel today after being told her stepfather would be unable to fly to Hawaii and join her on a dream vacation.

"She is quite ill," said Heidi's mother, Mrs. Lucille Biggs. "She took the news pretty hard when we told her that her stepfather would probably not be coming out to join us."

Heid had expressed a wish to visit Hawaii before she died and her dream came true when a Canadian businessman raised some $2,400 for Heidi and her mother to spend this week in the islands.

On Tuesday, Heidi pleaded that her stepfather, Randy Hillman, come to Hawaii so she could "show him the sights."

St. Louis sources said Hillman said he was unable to come because he lacked the funds, but Mrs. Hillman said her husband told her he would have to stay home because his boss at the can company threatened to fire him if he left his job.

Whatever the reason, the news hit Heidi hard.

After a busy and wonderous Sunday and Monday when she rode a horse, went swimming, shopped and enjoyed the warmth and hospitality of Hawaii, Heidi had suffered a severe coughing spell and was put in bed.

The Bellville, Ill., child had hoped to get in more swimming at the Hawaii Regent Hotel pool and to "work on my tan" but instead had to remain indoors most of Tuesday.

"I feel sure something can be worked out so Randy can come out," she Mrs. Biggs. "I'm sure it would be the best medicine Heidi could ever get."

Fond of her 'to a degree'

Mitchell kidnaped Martha--McCord

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Mitchell was fond of Martha "to a degree," but "basically" kidnaped his wife to keep her ignorant of Watergate, convicted Watergate conspirator James McCord said Tuesday.

McCord said Mrs. Mitchell had not lied when she claimed she was manhandled and drugged to keep her from learning the truth about the Watergate break-in.

"Martha's story is true — basically the woman was kidnaped," McCord told UPI in an interview.

As for the former attorney general, McCord said, "I think he was fond of her to a degree. But I don't think the man ever leveled with her.

"I think that Martha was ignorant of most of his activities. Shocked is probably more proper. John Mitchell didn't want her to know."

And, McCord said, H.R. Haldeman and other top aides of President Richard M. Nixon were jealous of Mrs. Mitchell's popularity and speaking engagements, and wanted to do whatever they could to embarras her.

For a time, McCord had been Mrs. Mitchell's bodyguard before becoming chief of security for Nixon's re-election campaign. Mrs. Mitchell has complained that on the weekend the Watergate break-in was discovered in June, 1972, she was held "political prisoner" at the Newporter Inn at Newport Beach, Calif.

She said she had been given injections and held in her room against her will, and McCord told UPI: "They kept her locked up and she began to be afraid for her life."

McCord said Haldeman — then Nixon's chief of staff — had been involved in "a great effort in the White House to discredit Martha Mitchell. They were extremely jealous of her and feared her because she was very candid ... and because she was in so much demand" for appearances at Republican rallies.

"This resulted in a massive discrediting operation," said McCord. "They wanted to see her embarrassed."

McCord's letter to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica on March 19, 1973, is credited with helping blow the lid off the Watergate cover-up.

Chief Justice Warren Burger has denied McCord's petition to remain free on bond pending appeal. He was convicted of conspiring to break into Democratic National headquarters in the Watergate building.

On the take in the 'World of Suzy Wong'

HONG KONG (UPI) — A former police officer, admittedly on the take for 18 years, said today his top post in Hong Kong's red light district was "like being allowed free run of the vaults of the Bank of England."

Ernest Hunt, a 21-year Hong Kong police veteran, testified he gave former chief superintendent Peter F. Godber a bribe to gain a top post in the sleazy Wanchai district, setting of the novel "The World of Suzy Wong."

Hunt was testifying in the second day of the bribery and conspiracy trial of Godber, who faces a maximum 12-year jail term on charges of accepting $25,000 in bribes to get police promotions.

Godber had fled to England after 21 years on the Hong Kong Royal Police force but was extradited back to the colony in January.

Hunt, who himself served eight months in jail last year for corruption, also said he saw Godber pocket a 1½-inch-thick wad of 500-dollar Hong Kong bills from another officer seeking a transfer and automatic promotion.

Nicknamed "Crazy" by his fellow officers, Hunt said he would earn $55,200 for his recent series of articles on corruption published by the London Daily Express.

He agreed when the defense lawyer read from the Daily Express series that the divisional superintendent's posting in Wanchai was "like being allowed free run of the vaults of the Bank of England."

THE GAME MUST GO ON — While firemen work to put out a fire in a building on New York's upper East Side, boys unmindful of the goings on continue to play their game of basketball nearby.

Only patrol car stolen

KENYON, Minn. (UPI) — Police Chief Martin Koskela said the department's only patrol car was taken recently while an officer responded to a call.

"There's gotta be something going on here," Koskela said.

The blue patrol car with a white top and doors was reported missing about 5 a.m. when an officer was out of his car on a routine call. He left the motor running.

Dealer outdoes rebate, sells old car for $1

LAKEWOOD, N.J. (UPI) — Car dealer Jack Shea went one better than the rebate program Monday —he sold a 1965 Chevrolet Impala valued at $450 for $1 to a teenager who waited 37½-hours for the deal.

Patrick McDonald, 18, of Bricktown, N.J., was the first customer in line Monday morning and thus won the right to make a choice among several used cars for the price of $1 as part of a Washington's Birthday sale promotion at Shea's dealership in Lakewood, N.J.

McDonald said his parents brought him food during his doorstep vigil, which began at 8 p.m. Saturday, and he said that after the wait ended he felt "very good —both physically and because I have the car."

Submarines are becoming the hunter, not the hunted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A veteran submarine commander says nuclear submarines are becoming the hunter of the seas again instead of the hunted.

The old convoy system may have to be junked, said retired Navy Capt. W. J. Ruhe, who served in World War II in submarines and later in antisubmarine warefare studies.

"In ASW," he wrote in the February issue of United States Naval Proceedings, "the submarine is supposed to be the prey. Yet, unless new tactics and an economical technology can be devised to cope with the nuclear submarine's increasingly accurate wire guided torpedoes and antiship missiles, things will continue to go the prey's way, and wartime service in the merchant marine will be hazardous beyond measure."

Ruhe noted there are 17,000 Free World merchantmen of over 1,000 tons and 35,000 ocean going fishing vessels, tugs, yachts and tramp steamers plying the seas today. Their supply function in wartime — particularly oil tankers —would be vital.

"With the appearance of two relatively new long range submarine weapons, traditional ASW tactics for the protection of shipping appear to have lost much of their military efficiency and economical practicality," Ruhe said.

"The accurate attack ranges which are afforded the nuclear submarine by its antiship missile and wire guided homing torpedo are so great as to require excessive numbers of ASW units for protection of even a small number of merchant ships with present methods."

Coupled to a nuclear submarine, the wire guided torpedo has an accurate range 10 times that of a conventional torpedo fired from visual distances of up to 2,000 yards.

"This torpedo —with guidance supplied from sound bearings on the propulsion noise of the ship attacked — can be used at deep submergence, never exposing any part of the submarine above the surface of the water," Ruhe said.

In still another dimension of weapon capability is the antiship missile which can be launched 100 miles from target and arrives supersonically.

"The day of seeing the submarine before it attacks is over," Ruhe said. "With nuclear submarines operated efficiently and discreetly, there should be few opportunities of ASW forces spotting periscopes or masts —compared to past experience against conventional, diesel-driven submarines."

Some experts argue that the basic convoy system is still the best way to ensure safety of a maximum number of merchant shipping in hostile seas. Others argue the disadvantages of bunching high-value cargoes and recommend dispersal over wide areas with the ships protected by vertical takeoff aircraft from the ships themselves.

The convoy, Ruhe said, provides "ready, long-range identification of targets ... a favorable opportunity for coordinated fire from several missile-firing platforms and simplifies submarine attack and evasion tactics."

Guard watches film while store robbed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A security guard who left his post for a couple of hours to see a movie returned to find a hole in the wall and $120,000 in jewels missing from a safe inside, police said.

A police spokesman said the guard, who was not identified, apparently decided to leave the jewelry store about 5:30 p.m. to see the movie. When he returned about midnight, a hole had been knocked in a wall of the store and a safe inside had been opened.

He said "the tumblers had been knocked out" and the jewels, mostly jade rings, were gone.

State's gas use up again

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California gasoline consumption increased in December 1974 following a year of slackening demand, the state reported today.

The Board of Equalization said December consumption was 869 million gallons, 6.4 per cent more than the same month in 1973.

The board said December, 1973 was the first month to show a decline in fuel consumption. By the end of last year, Californians were using gasoline at the same rate as before the energy shortage, the board said.

December, 1974 consumption was 8.7 per cent higher than November, the board reported.

Revenue for the month from the 7-cent-a-gallon state tax was $60.8 million, the board said.

A FEATHER IN HER CAP — Margaret Truman Daniel, daughter of the late President Harry S. Truman, adjusts cap at the George Washington University winter convocation. Mrs. Daniel received an honorary Doctor of Letters degree.

When college degrees don't pay off

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — Rick Kohler's pursuit of the American Dream took a detour at 4:50 p.m. Dec. 2.

"My immediate supervisor called me into the back conference room 10 minutes before quitting time," Kohler said.

"He handed me a paycheck for that day —$34 after taxes — and told me I was laid off indefinitely. I had 10 minutes notice and no severance pay."

Like many of America's middle class youth, Kohler believed a college education would lead to a comfortable white collar job and a salary that would let him buy the niceties of life —on credit.

Kohler was graduated from Missouri Valley College with a degree in economics and a minor in business administration. He took a job as an assistant sales manager with Weber Industries Inc. and bought his first luxury, an expensive motorcycle, on time.

"I knew sales were down," he said. "I worked with the sales figures daily and I knew sales for the previous two months were down. I was with a smaller company, and they're affected the fastest when an economic crisis occurs."

The day he was laid off, Kohler promised himself he would never sell his motorcycle. Now, after sifting through the newspapers for jobs, he's not so sure.

"My long range plan is to find a job as soon as possible," he said. "If I can't, a lot of things have to change ... like maybe the motorcycle."

Kohler is luckier than most of the millions of unemployed. With no family to support, he can just get by on the $67 a week he gets from unemployment.

He rents a $20,000 furnished house in suburban St. Louis and shares the $190 rent with a student. He produced his monthly bills —$45 from Laclede Gas, $10.88 from Southwestern Bell Telephone and a surprisingly low $13.95 from Union Electric. "We keep a dark house," he said.

Drinking a cup of coffee with the want ads on a table before him, Kohler turned off the volume on a small black-and white television and talked of how it is to be unemployed.

"I go for the bare necessities," he said. "I might have to move into a smaller residence. I definitely have to plan every auto trip because my car gets only 10 miles to the gallon. I sleep late, watch more TV. Basically, I'm bored."

Yet, Kohler is still paying the employment agency which helped him find the job he lost. "Isn't that a bitch?" he said.

He's considering turning to blue collar work but feels his college education still qualifies him for something better.

"At one time I thought I wouldn't work with my hands if I could get an education and work with my brain," he said. "I'll be 28 in February. I'm trying to decide if I want to get back into the white collar field or make a good living as a blue collar worker.

"I don't want to drive a truck but I might be forced to financially.

"It's no longer true that there's a job waiting for everyone with a college degree."

Tiffany's ad defends capitalism

NEW YORK (UPI) — Breakfast at Tiffany's Tuesday was a 141-word lecture on "The Truth about Capitalism."

The exclusive Fifth Avenuue jewelry store bought advertisement space on page 3 of The New York Times to warn that government interference and overregulation threaten to ruin captalism.

Walter Hoving, Tiffany chairman and author of the message, said the company periodically buys space to get its philosophical message across. "We think it's part of our social responsibility," he said.

It hasn't hurt business either. "The last time we ran one in October, one man came in and said he would buy a necklace for $2,600 if he got 50 copies of the ad," Hoving said.

Tiffany's, Hoving said, didn't buy the October ad —a lecture on how inflation was "the inevitable result of our folly"— or Tuesday's to promote business.

"We're not that grubby," he said.

Nor was it purchased, Hoving said, because Tiffany's sales have been hurt by the recession. "With us, it has been very good."

Hoving said he bought the ad, which cost $700, because U.S. captalism "has been rather badly bent. It's under severe regulations. Private capital is interferred with all over the place on an accelerated basis.

"There is only one economic system and that is Capitalism," said the ad. "Russia, China, America and all others operate under the capitalistic system, no matter what they call it."

But, said the ad, "The only capitalism that has produced prosperity in the long run is the one that promotes freedom for its citizens.

"It is hoped the world will someday wake up to this important truth."

"This," said Hoving, "is not political. We're just stating the facts."

Measure seeks to remove age from license

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — A person's age is his own business, according to the sponsor of legislation to remove the year of birth from New Mexico driver's licenses.

"Nobody needs to know how old you are," said Rep. James Caudell. "Some people just don't like it, mostly women."

Caudell said the state motor vehicle department has no need for the information and that juveniles still could be distinguished from adults on drivers' licenses because the pictures are different.

"When you cash a check, they write everything off the driver's license, including the birth date," he said. "There's no reason for that —it has nothing to do with your identification."

Slave census

It is estimated that before 1600 there were fewer than one million slaves in the Americas and that the number grew to more than 2.7 million in the next 100 years and to more than seven million in the 18th century.

13 of 19 MSAC candidates appear at forum

Teacher bargaining, minority hiring are top issues

Collective bargaining with binding arbitration and an affirmative action program that directs schools to seek out qualified women and minorities for available jobs have emerged as the two basic issues in the election to the Mt. San Antonio College board of trustees March 4.

But there was only mild confrontation at a muted public forum Tuesday night at the college where 13 of the 19 candidates spoke to an audience of about 75 persons.

Three four-year positions are at stake. Candidates John J. O'Leary, Ron Boran, Harry Branscom, Joseph Damasius, Leona Bourdet and Robert Kirste did not attend.

And candidate James M. Popovich of Pomona used the forum to announce his withdrawal from the race in favor of a three-man coalition composed of incumbents William Temple of Covina and Richard Todd of Pomona and aspirant Travis Manning of Hacienda Heights.

A surprise at the forum was an announcement by new board member Charles Hall, running for re-election, that he was starting a move to increase the membership of the MSAC board from five to seven members to provide broader representation.

He drew some rebuttal from Temple and Todd, but the main interest remained with the two basic issues and how the board would deal with them.

Although most candidates felt that collective bargaining, now before the California courts, would be approved for teachers within the next year, candidate Royell Storing of La Puente took exception.

"I don't accept it as a fact that it's coming," he declared. "I feel we can do something about keeping it out. I think it's a poor bill. Only our elected officials should have the power to decide how we spend our tax money."

But the consensus was that the proposal that will give teachers and other public officials the right to bargain through unions and to strike, if necessary, will become a law within a year.

"I'm sorry to see it come to California," Todd remarked. "Some of those who have had it have not done as well as we have without it. It will take a lot of time and the students will be the victims."

Temple said he felt that if the law is passed it will also activate a call for the revision of other laws, particularly the one that provides tenure for teachers. But he said he was not worried because the district already was providing more money and better conditions for its staff than the average college.

And Alfred Diaz of Pomona and Gilbert Ramirez of West Covina felt collective bargaining did not have to be a problem as long as the district dealt fairly with its teachers.

But Hall contended that the law will elevate the teachers' status "from collective begging to collective bargaining, and I'm for that. It's no big issue and I'm not afraid of it."

Hall's position was also opposed by Manning who said the district "must have people on the board who understand what can happen through collective bargaining. We do not need it; we can provide reasonable salaries without it."

Ralph Kimball of Walnut said collective bargaining was the result of "insensitivity by our industries and our schools."

And Mrs. Hazel Haas of Covina said she felt teachers would do "less work for more money" as a result of union representation. She said she preferred direct talks between the board and the teachers.

As for affirmative action, most candidates felt it was worthwhile, but contended that it should be based on qualifications rather than on a quota system.

"Minorities and women should get up and keep pounding on the doors of our industries and institutions to show the community there were qualified people under the program who could handle jobs," Mrs. Haas declared.

There were other issues.

Mrs. Loretta Cousar of West Covina urged voters to support her not only because she would be the first woman ever to serve on the board, but because she felt the board "has been insensitive" to the spirit of the affirmative action program. She said she would see to it that quality education would be extended to all segments of the community.

William Nash of Pomona told the audience that he would hire school administrators from the business world, not from among educators, to run the college. And he scoffed at ideas to establish a community theater at MSAC. He said the college didn't need one because Cal Poly had one and so did the Claremont Colleges.

Kimball advocated more flexible education at the college, including enlargement of opportunities for students to challenge courses in which they felt proficient, and a more extensive occupational training program.

Rodney Davis of La Verne offered his experience in flexible education —a program he has headed at La Verne College for the past three years — as his qualifications for a post on the board. He also felt the district needed better communication with the community it served.

He said that if there had been sufficient communication between the board and the community, the special election in which Hall was elected to the board, and the cost of the election which he said has cost $73,000, might have been averted.

Manning, looking at the sparse crowd in the 400-seat auditorium, remarked that the turnout was small probably because of the lack of basic disagreements with the way the present trustees and administrators were running the college.

"There are no big issues, no strong disagreements," he contended. "I think those who have run the college have done an outstanding job."

Bonita drafts cuts: 70 classes, 22 teachers

The Bonita School District announced plans for drastic curtailment of its educational program in the event is proposed override fails at the polls March 4.

The curtailment would include the elimination of 70 courses and the institution of a shorter school day at the intermediate and high schools, the reduction of the staff by 22 teachers and six other employes, and a cut in bus services, among other things.

Supt. James Johnson told the school board Tuesday night that failure of the 61-cent override per $100 assessed valuation at next month's elections would mean a loss of about $500,000 in revenue next year.

Defeat of the override, Johnson said, will mean elimination of 60 courses at the two high schools and 10 at the intermediate schools. Students will be taking five courses a day instead of the present six.

Although the final decision about the exact courses to be eliminated will be delayed until March 11 after the bond election, a list was made of those subjects which could be dropped.

At the high school level at Bonita the proposed elimination of courses would include seven courses in art, two in business, two in vocational business, 13 in English, four in Homemaking, six in industrial arts, four in mathematics, three in modern foreign language, four in music and eight in physical education.

Four classes in social studies are also under close scrutiny. The directors of athletics and student activities would be lost.

At San Dimas High School the proposed elimination of courses could be four in art, 12 in business, 14 in English, 5 in homemaking, 12 in industrial education, two in Mathematics, one in foreign language, four in music, five in physical education, two in science and six in social science. Elimination of the director-of-athletics and director of student activities also would occur.

At the intermediate level the elimination of courses would be all of those in industrial arts, music, homemaking, journalism, yearbook, algebra, T.V. drama and A-V production. Both schools would lose directors of student activities.

In addition there would be a loss of all interscholastic athletics at the intermediate level and a one-third reduction in teams and or coaches at the high school level.

The position of vocal music specialist at the elementary school level would be eliminated.

The counseling programs at both the intermediate and high school levels would be eliminated. This would mean six counselors in all. One person would remain at each high school to coordinate programming, testing and other general pupil personnel functions, but no counseling would be available as is now known.

The library programs at both intermediate schools would be eliminated. There would be a reduction of one-fourth in health and nursing services, and a cutback of one-third in psychological services.

Two grade schools would lose their principals and have to share a principal with another school.

In noncertificated personnel there would be a loss of two custodians, three clerks and a groundsman.

There would be no busing at all for high school students, and the distances required lengthened for intermediate and grade schoolers.

Council limits smoking to back rows of chamber

The Montclair City Council voted 3-2 Tuesday night to restrict smoking to the last three rows of the Council Chambers.

It took two motions to get the matter settled and eventually the two councilman who made and seconded the motion for the restriction both voted against their motion.

Councilman Nelson Gentry originally moved to restrict all smoking in the chambers, and asked that short recesses be called for those who wished to smoke.

Councilman Tom McClure, pointing out that he spoke from the position of a "distinct minority" since he was the only council member who did smoke, objected to Gentry's motion.

"I feel that those of us who chose to pollute our bodies should have that right. In the society in which we live, to totally ban anything is to take rights away from each individual," said McClure.

Mayor Harold Hayes suggested a compromise to restrict smoking to the last two rows of the chamber when the air conditioning is working adequately.

"I could not support total abolition of smoking for it is a person's right to pollute his own body if he so chooses," said Hayes.

Councilman Ernest Rowley stated "I have never felt I had the right to deprive someone of the pleasure of taking a smoke when he wished."

Gentry refused to amend his motion nonetheless. It failed with Paul Jones and Gentry voting yes and Hayes, Rowley and McClure voting no.

McClure then moved to limit smoking to three rows in the rear of the chamber. Rowley seconded the motion. Both men voted against the motion, without further explanation.

Claremont candidates, school tax proposal going to public

Voters in the Claremont Unified School District will have several opportunities to question five school board candidates and to ask questions concerning the tax override election March 4 at three community meetings.

Richard Kirkendall, district superintendent, will be present at all three meetings to present information and to answer questions.

The first meeting will be held Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Condit Elementary School, 1750 N. Mountain Ave.

Meetings scheduled for next week are Monday at 7:30 p.m. at Sycamore Elementary School, 225 W. Eighth St.; and Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at Sumner Elementary School, 1770 N. Sumner Ave.

Voters may also question the five board candidates who are seeking two board vacancies in the March 4 election.

The candidates include incumbent Mary Ellen Kilsby, Forrest Harrison, William Johnson, Gus Kitterle and Ernest Taylor.

The meetings are being sponsored by the Claremont League of Women Voters, and the Claremit Parent-Faculty Association Council.

Mrs. Virginia Nimmons of the Claremont League of Women Voters will moderate the program.

To encourage growth

New airport group forms

A special committee has been formed to encourage development and promote more flights at Ontario International Airport.

The members include San Bernardino County Supervisors Daniel Mikesell of Ontario and Robert Townsend of Chino, and county airport Commissioners Tony Peich of Chino, Glen Dorning of Ontario, Harold Hunt of San Bernardino and John Primrose of Redlands.

"We want to review various recommendations and come up with something positive in developing the airport," said Mikesell.

The first step toward this goal was to have the San Bernardino County Aviation Commission and the two West End supervisors become involved in promoting a positive program, he added. "We next propose to look where we are going and then consider how we can assist the Los Angeles Department of Airports in going forward. There has been too much negativism with the airport."

Peich, chairman of the airport commission, said he hopes to schedule the first meeting this month at which time recommendations may be made.

"The aim of the airport commission is to promote air transportation at all airports within the county. We will look into the Ontario airport's operation and upon conclusion of the meeting come out with some recommendations."

The date and site for the initial session may be determined this week.

"The Ontario International Airport has not been developed to its fullest potential," said Peich. "Airports are here to stay and air transportation is the most efficient and safest way to travel."

The airport commission is charged under state law to administer any corrections involving airport noise violations, he added. "Noise will enter into the whole study as we are for the best utilization of the airport in the best and quietest way it can be done."

City, school district work on compromise

Roynon playground conflict easing

A compromise is in the offing for the use of the Roynon School playground by the city of La Verne over the next four years.

The Bonita School District wants the city out, contending that the use of the playground by the Parks and Recreation Department for night games provides an unsafe condition for the school children.

The city counters that it has used the playground for more than two decades for Little League and Pop Warner League games.

Because the night lights are in need of repair, the city has earmarked $10,000 to improve lighting at Roynon next year. But the school district has not given permission to do the work.

In a bid for settlement of the conflict the district has submitted a proposal, read at Tuesday night's City Council meeting.

The district would permit the city to install the additional lights and operate the ballfield for a maximum of four years. But if the district found an alternate site, the city would have to move the ballfield to the new location within 90 days.

The council found the condition too rigid, and instructed City Manager George Caswell to submit a counterproposal that would give the city some control as to the timing and location.

"We should not be interested in just another site," Caswell said. "It should be a suitable location. And we also should have something to say about the termination notice. We don't want to put up the lights if the district gives notice next week to move."

In an unrelated matter, the council approved a report of the traffic committee to raise the speed limit on several of the city's main thoroughfares.

Arrow Highway through the city will be raised from 40 to 45 miles per hour; Bonita Avenue in mid-town will be changed from 25 to 30 miles; White Avenue north of Eighth Street will go from 35 to 40, and south of Sixth Street from 25 to 35.

Patient at Pacific State Hospital dies

An 8-year-old patient at Pacific State Hospital died Monday, apparently the result of choking on her breakfast, police reported. The victim was Cathy Feerstinger of Encino. Coroner's deputies scheduled an autopsy to determine the cause of the victim's death.

Police seize man at motel; rifle threats made, youth hit

A 29-year-old man was arrested Tuesday night after allegedly threatening to shoot a number of other residents at the Yellow Shutter Motel at 5544 Holt Blvd., Montclair.

Several police cars were dispatched to the motel after 11:30 p.m. after Ronald Miller, 15, a son of the motel manager, reported a tenant had gone berserk and struck him in the head with a rifle butt.

When police arrived, a man identified as Jerry Michael Magee, 29, was screaming and yelling threats to other tenants. The officers went to Magee's room and attempted to arrest him. Magee, according to officers, began fighting and had to be subdued. Officers said Magee had been drinking heavily just before the incident.

Later police learned that Miller had heard Magee yelling threats to the other motel residents and went to investigate. Miller went inside of Magee's room and tried to calm him down, police said. Finally Miller gave up and tried to leave the room. Miller said that the suspect struck him in the head with the rifle butt. Miller fled to safety over a wall and called police.

Magee was booked in the West End Jail on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon and brandishing a firearm. Both Miller and Magee were treated for minor injuries at Doctors Hospital in Montclair and released.

Drug use is topic

Questions regarding drug usage and abuse will be answered during the community education program tonight at the San Dimas Community Hospital at 7:30.

The program is sponsored by the local hospital.

Opinion

This is teaching?

Ever since the days of John Dewey, the famed learn-by-doing educator who shattered the old school dictums of "readin', ritin' and 'rithmetic," progressive educators and theorists have poured out a stream of new ideas.

Most of these theories, fortunately, were written as masters or doctoral theses, lauded to the highest by faculty members, then (fortunately) filed and forgotten never seeing the light of practical application. Some have managed to work their way into curricula across the nation aided and abetted by the National Education Association.

But one which surfaced this week at an NEA convention is beyond even the glassiest-eyed blatherings of far out graduate school theses.

Dr. William Ronwer Jr., an education department faculty member at UC Berkeley, read his paper on a new approach to grade school "learning". (That "Dr." in front of his name means he is an "authority" on education.)

Ronwer stated that grade schools now are geared only to those children who can understand reading and math leaving behind a frustrated mass of wiggling toddlers who don't like to read and labor over multiplication tables.

To combat this psychologically traumatizing experience, Ronwer advocates eliminating required reading, math and other courses allowing children to study only what they desire in the lower levels.

This "educational" approach would graduate 8th graders into high school who excelled in model airplane making, mudpie structure and television watching, but only a handful who could read and write.

One college textbook publisher last week announced the company was lowering freshmen textbook reading comprehension to the level of the ninth grade because today's college freshman cannot understand reading matter written for that level. Imagine the impact in 12 years if Ronwer's system were adopted.

The end result of Ronwer's "advanced theories" would be either abolition of the public school system or creation of an intellectual elite (those who were motivated enough to learn to read) or both.

There were those 20 years ago when television came into its own, who stated book publishers would go out of business in droves now that the tube had made reading obsolete. How wrong they were.

Today, as our knowledge leaps geometrically ahead, more books, manuals, pamphlets, articles (and newspapers) are being published. Supply is hard pressed to meet demand.

With the advent of computers which aided modern technology, one must spend a good portion of his time reading just to keep abreast of the latest developments. Man is only at the threshold of a knowledge explosion.

Man's knowledge is said to have doubled from the time of Christ to 1700, then again from 1700 to 1900. It doubled again between 1900 and 1950; again between 1950 and 1965 and now is doubling every few months.

How could this continue if our educational institutions cranked out illiterate graduates? Of course, as Ronwer points out, the darlings would not be frustrated.

We do not advocate a "taught to the tune of a hickory stick" learning process. But given the choice between a little frustration over having to learn the declination of a sentence or pi R square and total lack of a "traumatizing education learning experience," we will take the former.

A drug price bust

Every pill-popper whose doctor has prescribed much other than a dose of salts shudders when paying the pill bill. Prescription drugs, one of the marvels of this era of civilization, are one expensive proposition.

Declaring that Pennsylvanians pay "38 per cent less for prescription drugs than Californians because their supreme court tossed out a state anti-advertising law," Assemblyman Richard Robinson of Santa Ana has proposed a bill that would eliminate such advertising prohibitions.

Robinson says, "California's two million elderly, most of them on fixed incomes, are the hardest hit. They're in the age group which has to buy most of the prescription drugs."

That's probably true, but from youngster to elder, nearly all people are using prescription drugs part of the time. The proposed law sounds like a drug price bust that everyone can cheer.

Thoughts for today

"No one can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or he will be devoted to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon."—Matthew 6:24.

Anderson's accuracy challenged

Last November, Jack Anderson wrote in his column a lurid description of brutal tortures allegedly inflicted on an American named Amy Conger while she was under arrest in Chile. Miss Conger's allegations were also aired over the NBC Today Show.

The Chilean Embassy in Washington immediately declared that Miss Conger's charges were false, offering documentation which cast serious doubt on her veracity. For example, she told the NBC audience that she had gone to Chile with no political motivation. The Chilean Government charges that she was actively involved with the terrorist organization known as MIR and that she harbored fugitives in homes that she rented with funds obtained from MIR.

Anderson implied that Miss Conger's health had been damaged by her 13-day imprisonment, saying that "she appears to be recovering." The Chileans have a document signed by the American consul and the vice-consul in Santiago which certifies that when Miss Conger was released to them she was in perfect health.

Columnist William F. Buckley, Jr. called the consul in Santiago to check on the discrepancies between what Anderson said and what the Chilean Embassy said. The consul told Mr. Buckley that Miss Conger made no complaint charging that she had been tortured when she was released. Mr. Buckley reported this in his syndicated column of Dec. 24.

Anderson replied to Buckley in his column of Jan. 3. He said Buckley had not contacted Amy Conger to hear her story. He added: "He did not call us or seek access to the range of informants from whom we built these accounts."

AIM immediately wrote to Jack Anderson, indicating that we wanted to check out his allegations. We asked him to tell us how to get in touch with the informants he had relied upon, including Miss Conger. If that was not possible, we asked him to supply us with the information obtained from these informants together with any evidence that would indicate how reliable they were as sources for the Conger story. We also asked NBC to tell us what they had done to check out Miss Conger's charges before airing them.

Jack Anderson has not responded to our request. Neither has NBC. Are we to believe Amy Conger or the American officials who said they received her in good health and that she had not complained of torture? — Reed J. Irvine, chairman, Accuracy in Media, Washington, D.C.

Is CIA hiding behind others?

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency has had an undercover relationship with both narcotics and customs agents. This raises the question of whether the CIA had hidden its illegal domestic operations behind our federal agencies.

We recently reported, for example, that federal narcotics agents maintained secret, bugged apartments for the CIA in San Francisco and New York City during the early 1960s. The CIA used these apartments, according to our sources, as sex traps to blackmail foreign diplomats into becoming informants.

We have now dug deeper into the CIA narcotics connection. Here are our findings:

—Several years ago, the CIA trained 13 narcotics agents at its supersecret counterespionage school. Most of these agents are still working for the Drug Enforcement Agency.

—We have the names of 64 former CIA employes who now work for the DEA. About half are assigned to the Intelligence Unit at DEA's Washington headquarters. The others are scattered in seven foreign countries and nine U.S. cities.

—In another operation, the drug agency laundered payments through the CIA to an informant who travels abroad and picks up intelligence on narcotics. Because the man is still an active DEA informant, we won't identify him.

—William Hood, who retired shortly after press reports linked him to CIA domestic spying operations, was issued a set of federal narcotics credentials. We have established that he used them at least once in New York City.

Both CIA and DEA spokesmen insist that the working relationship between the two agencies was part of the war against drugs. When the DEA was reorganized in July 1973, CIA chief William Colby reviewed the interagency cooperation with DEA boss John Bartels. They agreed to sever all domestic ties.

Bartels has also sent an internal memo to all former CIA agents now on the DEA payroll to ask whether they still have secret CIA links. All replies have been negative.

Footnote: Our associate Bob Owens also contacted many of the former CIA agents. All denied any continuing association with the spy agency.

RIGGING ELECTIONS: Among the papers recently stolen from Daniel Ellsberg and recovered by the police were his minutes of a secret Saigon meeting at which former Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge made some startling comments about rigging elections.

The police turned over the stolen papers to Congress, which locked them in a safe. But from a non-congressional source, we have obtained a copy of the Ellsberg minutes.

The minutes record what was said at a secret meeting at the U.S. embassy in Saigon on July 25, 1966. There was a discussion of the approaching South Vietnamese elections.

Deputy Ambassador William Porter noted that Maj. Gen. Edward Lansdale, the pacification chief, and Maj. Gen. Nguyen Duc Thang, the South Vietnamese pacification minister, were working together to keep the elections honest.

This triggered a surprising response from Ambassador Lodge. "You've got a gentleman in the White House right now who has spent most of his life rigging elections," snorted Lodge, referring to the late President Lyndon Johnson.

"I've spent most of my life rigging elections," Lodge added. A former senator, he was Richard Nixon's running mate on the 1960 Republican presidential ticket.

"I spent nine whole months once rigging a Republican convention," he went on, "to choose Ike (Dwight Eisenhower) as a candidate rather than Bob Taft . . .

"The issue here is whether you can have open primaries. The fact is that in Southeast Asia in wartime you simply cannot have open primaries . . .

"What worries me about the newspapermen is that they set higher standards for these people than we set for ourselves at home. Nixon and I would have taken Chicago in 1960 if there had been an honest count.

"The Republican machine there was simply lazy; they didn't get out the vote, and they didn't have anyone watching the pools. But I don't blame the Republicans. There is just a limit to how naive or hypocritical we can afford to be here." Then, according to the minutes, Lodge turned to Porter and demanded: "Is that responsive to your question?"

The minutes describe Porter as "looking slightly taken aback." He is quoted as responding: "I just thought General Lansdale should stay close to General Thang on the issue of elections."

"Well . . ," Lodge shot back, "I want General Lansdale to stay close to Thang on the subject of pacification, which I think is a great deal more important."

Footnote: The minutes also describe "a long discussion of the problem of unsolicited presents to Vietnamese and the troops, (including) several tons of bubble gum and foot power. Lodge wondered whether there was no one in Washington who would take the responsibility for saying 'no.'"

RALPH NOVAK

Brother, can you spare a tank?

"Excuse me, Miss, but things sure are boring waiting here on the unemployment line, aren't they?"

"Yes, they are, sir. I usually try and pass the time by reading a newspaper. I was just noticing here where the Defense Department wants a budget of $105 billion for next year. That means that everybody in the country gets to spend about $520 apiece next year to make sure the airplane manufacturers don't go out of business and the generals don't lose their special dining rooms.

"Tell me, sir, what do you want to buy with your $520?"

"Gee, I'd never thought of it exactly that way before. Let me see; I think I'd like to buy maybe a small counter-insurgency action someplace. Nothing major, mind you — just a few helicopters and Green Berets, maybe. Just a little something in a tropical country where I could be sure my money wasn't going to waste.

"How about you?"

"It's hard to say. I'd kind of like to buy one of those smart bombs. It doesn't have to be a real bomb, mind you — just a nice smart one, that can tell the difference between an enemy air field and the Astrodome, for instance. I wouldn't even mind if it got a little rambunctious. Bombs will be bombs, I always say."

"Well, yes, Miss, but I wonder how we go about letting the Pentagon know what we'd like to do with our money?"

"You don't think we could just call Secretary of Defense Schlesinger and give him our list?"

"Something tells me that might not work. He's probably pretty busy, you know, scouring the budget to make sure there's no waste and that nobody's taking unfair advantage of us. I'll bet even now he's trying to figure a way to save some money on new weapons so we can spend it more efficiently to build new housing and create more jobs."

"What a thrifty Secretary of Defense we have, don't we, sir? But then how can we let him know where we want our $520 spent? Even though some of we teachers are out of work, I want to let him know I'm glad those poor defense contractors aren't starving."

"Right on, Miss. Us guys in the factory were really glad to put in our $520, too, when we were working, of course. Maybe we could form a group, sort of pool our contributions and ask the Pentagon to buy a battleship or something with it."

"I have an idea. How about if we write in and ask him to let us have our $520 back so we can decide how we want to use it. That way, while we're thinking it over, we can have the money to pay the rent and things for the time being."

"Great! Then if he decides he really needs the money back in a hurry, he can call us and ask, 'Brother, can you spare $520?'"

"Of course, we'd never even think of telling him no."

Just in jest

Never underestimate the lengths to which our lawmakers will go to make certain we the people get what's coming to us. Having lowered the restrictions on off-shore oil drilling, they are now about to pass legislation legalizing the smoking of marijuana.

One of our legislators has even introduced a bill which would allow doctors to prescribe birth control pills to minors without the necessity of getting parental consent. However, it isn't only in California that the lawmakers have been working overtime on legislation which they consider in the best interest of their constituents.

In Madison, Wis., the City Fathers have repealed an ordinance which prohibited the use of obscene language in public places. — But to get back to California once again. Here, if our duly elected officials can't correct an evil by passing a law, they'll do the next best thing and offer to pay blackmail to keep it from happening.

In Madera County a Supervisor recently suggested paying the Hell's Angels motorcycle goons $1,000 if they would stay away from Bass Lake. And mark my words, if that sort of thing catches on, it won't be long before we voters will be asked to underwrite Protection Bonds.

But even if we fail to pass them, no sweat! As a last resort our lawmakers can always dicker with Saudi Arabia for a loan similar to the $200 million loan the Arabs have offered New York City. Which only goes to prove once again, as someone once so aptly remarked, where there's a lawmaker there's a way.

Our national jesters honored

The week just past was one of recognition for two of the country's most successful professional jesters.

On the cover of a national newsmagazine, there was the manic image of Mel Brooks, the hottest property going on a bullish laughter market, peering at "Young Frankenstein" 's monster.

I Washington, there was Bob Hope and Gerald Ford making up a pro-am comedy pairing at the annual banquet of the National Entertainment Conference. Two thousand college students greeted the President when he took time away from his official duties in Atlanta, Houston, and elsewhere to visit the nation's capital, where Hope was being honored as Comedian of the Century.

Ford, with the assistance of his resident White House joke-smith, Bob Orben, came well-prepared for the occasion. He warmed up his audience — none of whom had been born when Hope first achieved national fame as a young radio comic in the late 1930s — with a series of presidential one-liners.

As has been noted here, the ability — or at least the willingness — to pop one-line gags at audiences is a latter-day mark of political sophistication. There is a bit of the frustrated stand-up comic in us all, and our national leaders, whatever their actual skill at delivering punchlines, are no exception. Ford is only one of many members of his craft who now consider audience warm-up gags as standard equipment in their speechmaking kits.

That in itself is a tribute to Hope. More than any of his peers, the young septuagenarian who came here from England has popularized the benign topical one-liner: the quip, based on some current event, which deflates without crippling or offending its target victim.

To be sure, efforts to dissect the structure and meaning of why people laugh, like analyzing a golf swing, tend to raise as many murky questions as they answer. But this, after all, remains the Supermedia Age in which no phenomenon can long escape analysis via scholarly journals and talk shows. Our national wit has therefore come in for its share of in-depth commentary, with Hope, whose popularity as a comedian never seems to waver, duly dissected over the years.

Humor being the mildest form of rebellion against established thought, Hope has been viewed as the foremost practitioner of a comic form that reflects the cultural shift America underwent during the Depression '30s. Before him, the American tradition in humorists ran to slow-drawling cracker-barrel philosophers (Artemus Ward, Will Rogers), puncturing the pretensions of smart aleck city slickers.

Then came Bob Hope. He was the super-charged city slicker himself, with a rapid-fire patter which singled out as its prime target the boondocks Will Rogers once spoke for. Remember? Hope always got his biggest laughs (and still does) by the mere mention of names suggesting small-town America: Pomona, Cucamonga, Azusa . . .

But if Hope's style reflects the revolt of the city-dwellers against rural tradition in the 1930s, what are we to make of the modern madness of Mel Brooks? It is anarchy, pure and simple — but the controlled anarchy of a comic genius. A vulgarian, perhaps, as Brock's worst critics say. Yet if, memory serves, the young Hope in his day was subject to the same charge.

But enough already: it was Nietzche (not, as I recall, a philosopher especially remembered for his sense of humor) who defined a joke as "an epitaph on an emotion."

Meaning, unless something was lost in translation, that as "Young Frankenstein" and his forebears learned, there are things on earth not meant for the comprehension of mere mortal minds; and that humor happens to be one of those God-given graces best left to stand as its own last word.

Bail money finally bailed out; tomato haul survives

I have tried unsuccesstully to have some bail money returned from a bail bond firm in San Jose.

The case was dismissed two months ago and the bail has not been returned.

I called long distance. The call was returned collect. I was told the money would not be sent until a court release was obtained.

Surely in two months the paper work must be completed.

The defendant was driving a truck load of tomatoes when he was arrested.

My daughter paid the bail charge and called me to send the bail so he'd get released before the tomatoes spoiled.

When he went to court the charge was dismissed. If the bail had been sent direct to the court I'd have my money back but now I can't seem to get it.

I don't understand too much about bail but I can't help but wonder what the $40 charge paid by my daughter was for if I furnished the bail of $315.

I feel I'm caught in the middle and don't know what to do. — S. W., Montclair.

You explained to us that you were awakened in the middle of the night by the phone call for help. In the confusion you didn't realize you shouldn't have sent the bail when your daughter had paid the bail bond company for that service.

We wrote to the company and to the court and learned that you had been twice misinformed.

The charge against the defendant had not been dismissed. A pretrial date had been set.

After getting our letter, a woman at the bail bond company sent you a personal check. It was returned by the bank marked "insufficient funds."

You threatened to contact the police if a good check wasn't forthcoming.

You got a lot of unprintable back talk by phone, she told us, but the good check arrived.

You and the tomatoes survived. We never did find out what happened to the defendant.

I ordered the magazines "Front Page" and "Inside" from Detective Publications Inc. because both print the latest articles while others print anything, the older the better.

I even complimented the company or the quality of the magazines.

Vanilla has a hidden value for weight-watchers. Craving for sweets must be satisfied in order to stop nibbling. Vanilla itself counts only six calories per teaspoon but it brings out sweetness in foods, making less sugar necessary. A small amount of sugar must be present for the vanilla to accent as it is not a sweetner.

ANN LANDERS

Nothing but trouble ahead for woman in love with friend's husband

Dear Ann Landers: This may sound like a trashy novel to you but it's new to me. I have fallen deeply in love with the husband of a close friend. We've been meeting secretly at a motel ten miles out of town. We both live for the few hours we can share together. Marriage is out of the question — too many children and sensitive spouses involved.

Last night after my lover checked into the motel we drove around to our room in the rear. Just as we were unlocking the door we bumped right into his eldest son who was coming out of the adjoining room with his girl friend. It was a terrific shock to all of us. Nobody spoke, but his son's gasp could have been heard a half block away.

That boy never liked me and I'm sure he'd love to tell his mother, except of course, he'd have to explain what HE was dong there. Shall I take the chance and keep my mouth shut? Or should I tell her myself and promise never to go out with her husband again, although I doubt that I am strong enough to keep the promise? — Trapped

Dear T: Say nothing. But DO make the promise — to yourself — and try your darndest to keep it. You are on a collision course, my friend, and sooner or later there's going to be a smash-up unless you take a quick detour.

Dear Ann Landers: How can a female employee tactfully refuse to have lunch with her boss? I am not a prude but I have no interest in getting involved with him. The last thing in the world I want to do is offend the man, damage his ego or jeopardize my job. Can you suggest a smooth but firm negative response that meets all the requirements? Thanks, Ann. —Tongue-Tied In Toledo

Dear Toledo: Untie your tongue and tell your boss that for a long time you've had a standing lunch date with the girls and you don't want to hurt their feelings. It's a logical reason and disposes of the problem neatly.

Dear Ann Landers: My mother-in-law and father-in-law recently separated. Mamie is 44 years old and lives 30 miles away. Last week when my wife told her the house next door to ours went on the market, she said, "Wonderful. I think I'll buy it."

My wife and I are in our mid-twenties. I have always been very fond of Mamie but I really don't want her living next door to us. She is not overbearing or nosy, but my wife and I both feel that there are bound to be problems — such as too much "togetherness" and including her in our social activities. Is there any tactful way to tell a mother-in-law that you love her dearly but you wish she wouldn't buy the house next door? — Confused

Dear Con: You're going to have problems no matter which way you go. My advice is — level with her. If Mamie buys the house anyway, you and your wife should sit down with her and outline the ground rules. Then make sure everybody sticks to them.

CONFIDENTIAL to Should I or Shouldn't I?: If I were in your place I'd do it. Remember, the only difference between a rut and a grave are the dimensions. Good luck, dear, and keep me posted.

ERMA BOMBECK

Reaching 40 a traumatic experience

Elvis Presley has just endeared himself to me by disappearing on his 40th birthday and refusing to come out until he gets it all together.

I was in seclusion for a year and a half before I felt I could adjust to the condition.

No one, unless they've been there, can aporeciate the physical and emotional traumas of reaching 40. Your body reacts like a steam iron on the last day of warranty. It dies on you.

As the second hand swept around on that grim day in February, signifying my birth, my eyes went. I couldn't read the sale tags on dresses or menus unless they fell on the floor. And one day I cooked an 11 pound turkey for six hours when I should have cooked a six dollar turkey for 11 hours.

Two hours later the teeth went. Fillings that had served me for years fell out while I was eating pudding. I became a "standing" at the dentist.

The body? I could have sued it for non-support and won. Muscles that had been with me for life either fell or shifted.

I became a lumpy bundle of defensiveness. One afternoon, I was under the dryer in the beauty shop leafing through one of those magazines where the models look at you like they've just taken a harsh laxative, when I saw a headline, "DON'Ts FOR AFTER 40." It said, "Don't wear pink eyeshadow. Don't wear red lipstick or nail polish. Don't wear bright, diagonal patterns. Don't wear open-toed shoes." The list must have been a page long.

Out loud I snarled, "Do you mind if I chew gum?"

Then I remembered I had just been to the dentist and couldn't chew on that side.

A woman sitting next to me, looked over at the article and smiled. "Remember, dear, you are only as old as you feel."

I almost smacked her across the mouth with my Medicare application.

Everyone comes to grips with age 40 in his or her own private way. Some people develop a holding pattern at age 37 until they can handle it. Some are resentful and make obscene phone calls to the Osmond Brothers. Others accept it for what it is, a punishment from God for not tithing to the church.

I rather like the Elvis Presley approach to 40. Just go to your room, refuse to answer the door, wallow in self-pity, and pray for a miracle drug to cure it.

DOCTOR COMMENTS

How much vitamin C does one need?

By Lawrence E. Lamb M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to ask you about vitamin C. Just how much vitamin C is considered an overdose? I have been giving my three sons, ages 9, 11 and 15, a 500-milligram tablet plus a regular multiple vitamin which contains 60 milligrams of vitamin C every morning.

Unless they are just slowly outgrowing colds and respiratory problems, it seems they get fewer and less severe colds and other ailments now.

Also my mother, age 62, was told by a doctor to take vitamin C because of frequent colds, but she is confused as to whether to take 250 milligrams or 500 milligrams.

DEAR READER — Both the statements about how harmful vitamin C could be and how helpful it is have been grossly overdone in typical human excess.

At this date some studies suggest that vitamin C does help prevent the severity of colds and similar ailments, but there is serious doubt that large doses actually prevent colds. Most people would be happy with anything that shortened the duration of such illnesses and made them less severe.

Once the body becomes saturated with the water soluble vitamins the excess just runs out. It is like filling a cup with water. Once it is full the rest runs over.

In general, to use vitamin C for colds and similar illnesses, I think you need from 250 to 1000 milligrams a day. Less than 250 probably won't help much and more than 1000 won't give any added benefit. Even 250 milligrams a day is far above the recommended daily amounts needed for sound nutrition. I don't think anyone is going to have any trouble from doses of 1000 milligrams a day or less.

The amounts you are using for your boys are fine. I think it is better to give vitamin C in divided doses each day if that isn't too inconvenient; say 250 milligrams twice a day or, if an adult wants to take larger doses, perhaps 250 milligrams four times a day or even 500 milligrams twice a day.

I am not convinced that those huge doses of three or four grams (3000 to 4000 milligrams) at the onset of an illness are either beneficial or wise. Most people have already had the infection for several days before they have symptoms of a cold, so you can't really start these large doses at the onset of the illness. A daily dose of 250 milligrams is probably enough for most people in terms of decreasing the severity of colds and infectious illnesses.

Remember, colds are infectious diseases, meaning they are caused by germs, and are contagious. It is true that as children get older their tendency to get such illnesses is decreased. They develop some natural immunity and that helps a lot.

Parents of young school children have far more colds than parents who no longer have school children living at home. All public contact is a means of spreading colds.

I'd also like to say a few words that may seem old fashioned, but there is nothing wrong with fresh orange juice and other fresh fruits and vegetables as sources of vitamin C if they are used in sufficient quantity. I kind of like food and think it is a good way to get your vitamins. It also tastes better than pills.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newsaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on balanced diet, send 50 cents and a long self-addressed stamped envelope to the same address and ask for the "Balanced Diet" booklet.

South had paused for a full second before winning the first spade. He played the ace and queen of clubs from dummy with equal speed. East showed out and, all of a sudden, North's nine-eight of clubs were going to block South's fifth club. South struggled along for some, but could not work out a way to get a ninth trick.

If South had stopped to think at the start of play, he might have seen the danger of a clubsuit block. In that case he could have let East hold the first spade trick. East would probably have led a second spade and South would let him hold that trick also.

After that South would be able to discard one of dummy's clubs on the ace of spades and score his five club tricks.

Of course, there is no law that would have compelled East to lead a second spade, but South should have been able to work out a way to get his ninth trick by playing and ducking a second spade himself.

Soil is a mixture of many things. It has in it tiny bits of rocks. It has in it, too, lumps of clay, bits of dead leaves and twigs and drops of water, along with many tiny plants we call bacteria and chemical elements of many kinds.

The small pieces of rocks were once part of larger rocks.

Nature has been at work for millions of years weathering and crumbling the rocks into tiny fragments.

It takes thousands of years for only two or three feet of soil to form, but plants could not grow if the soil were only bits of rocks.

To make real soil, something called "humus" must be added to it. Humus is a product that comes from decaying plants and other living things and their wastes.

Water in the soil dissolves the humus and other chemical elements so that they can be absorbed by the roots of living plants.

In turn, plants change the chemicals into food we can use.

A pocket radio, camera, World Almanac globe or other fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper), Box 1335 (DA), Santa Cruz, CA 95061.

$538 million road aid to state

P-B Washington Burea

WASHINGTON — California will receive just over $538 million in previously impounded federal funds for highway construction in the state, as a result of a directive by President Ford.

The $538 million is part of $2 billion Ford is making available to the states in an effort to aid the construction industry and ease unemployment.

Approximately $11.1 billion in federal highway funds have been impounded by President Johnson, Nixon and Ford since 1966. The $2 billion is part of that.

During fiscal years 1973-75, $648,225,000 in highway funds was impounded from apportionment by the Federal Highway Administration.

However, of that money, $110,000,000 was authorized for use in fiscal 1975, leaving $538,225,000 now freed for use by the state.

Company D members to hold 18th reunion

Former members of Pomona's old Company D, which at one time was a National Guard unit, will hold their 18th annual reunion dinner Saturday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Myron Powell, 731 Alamosa Drive, Claremont.

Ernest C. Beck of Pomona has been president of the group for many years. The reunion will start at 5 p.m. with a social hour. Dinner will be at 6:30 p.m.

The company was originally formed in Pomona in 1886 as the City Guards. It was mustered into the State Militia in 1887 as Company D of the 7th Infantry. It was called into active service in the Spanish American War and again during the 1906 fire in San Francisco.

Company D was 160 strong in the Mexican service in 1916. It was mustered into federal service in World War I and it became Company B of the Army's 160th Infantry. Its commanding officer was Capt. Charles P. Rowe, who was killed in action in France.

NABA unit schedules meet

The North American Benefit Association has scheduled a social meeting at noon Friday in the home of Mrs. Mary Watkins.

Members will bring a sack lunch and awards for games.

The Tri-County NABA meeting, scheduled earlier and postponed because of inclement weather, will be held March 7 at 10:30 a.m. in the Women's Community Clubhouse, 172 W. Monterey Ave.

Pomona BPW names '75 Woman of Year

The Pomona Business and Professional Women's Club honored Mrs. Anne Dawson of Pomona as its 1975 Woman of the Year during ceremonies Tuesday night at Griswold's Inn, Claremont.

MRS. ANNE DAWSON

Mrs. Dawson is executive secretary to the executive vice president of Pomona Valley Community Hospital and has been a member of the Pomona BPW Club for 10 years.

She has served as president, first vice president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer of the club. In addition, the honoree has filled many chairmanships and worked on fund-raising projects and service programs.

Mrs. Dawson has worked as an adviser for Camp Fire Girls, served as Red Cross Military coordinator, been a regional campaign worker for United Crusade and served as a Heart Fund volunteer. She also helped organize and served as vice chairman of the Pomona Valley Community Roundtable and served on the advisory board of Broadway Stores one year.

She has attended Spanish classes in medical terminology and conversation for better public relations and has participated in seminars in management and leadership training.

Her married daughter has just received a doctorate in psychology and her son is a materials-control manager in an industry associated with Apollo and Trident projects.

History repeats

"The want of indignation at flagrant wickedness is one of the alarming symptoms of our times. We are living in the midst of an amount of corruption second only to that of Sodom and Gomorrah." Did you think those words were part of a recent editorial on crime statistics? They are from a talk by Henry Ward Beecher given on November 15, 1868. And here's what the publication "Watchman and Reflector" said in March, 1872: "Bank robberies, ring despotisms, official corruptions, domestic tragedies, garrotings, burglaries, suicides — these come in upon us like tidal waves so constant and regular in their visitation that we are no longer startled by them." Anyone for ping-pong?

Valley Assistance League extends service into new areas

The years 1974 and 1975 have been transitional ones for the Assistance League of Pomona Valley. Established since 1935, the league has been known, traditionally, for service to the community. It has sought to provide assistance where there has been a need and attempted to adapt readily to the changing requirements of the community.

During its early years, the Pomona Valley chapter aided handicapped children in local schools, the Ontario Children's Home, Casa Colina, the David and Margaret Home, Pomona Valley Community Hospital, the Crippled Children's Society and the Visiting Nurse Association.

In 1954, finding a need for intensive and skilled training for the deaf and hard of hearing, the league established the Hearing and Speech Center which remained their permanent project until Spring, 1974. At that time membership voted to phase out the program when it was determined that the needs of the deaf were being adequately served by the Pomona Unified School District and other nearby agencies.

After extensive research into the unmet needs of the community and reevaluation of philanthropic objectives the league added three vital new projects — the Assistance League Learning Center, the Educational Aids project, and the Neighborhood Senior Center.

With the encouragement and approval of the Pomona Unified School District the Assistance League Learning Center began operations on Feb. 3, 1975. The purpose of the program is to provide individualized reading instruction for specially selected elementary aged children. It is designed to supplement classroom reading instruction and to allow the student an opportunity to profit from assistance on a one to one basis.

The former Hearing and Speech Center, 693 North Palomares, was well equipped to house a learning center, complete with small, individual classrooms and abundant educational aids. Ten local students are transported two mornings each week to the center where they spend one hour each day with a league volunteer. Each volunteer works individually with his student, allowing for a personalized approach to reading based on the student's particular interests.

Orientation and training sessions preceded the opening of the center. Conducting these meetings were Cornelius Hayes, Principal, Kingsley School, Dr. Harry Wall, Professor, Cal State University at Los Angeles; Pam Dahl, school district psychologist; Barbara Oglesby, Speech Therapist; and Glenda Sherertz, director of the program.

Dr. Wall was hired as consultant to assist in developing the program. As professional administrator, Mrs. Sherertz will supervise all volunteer work, serve as a resource person in the development of curriculum and coordinate these activities with the school. For the past five years she has been involved in the Ontario-Montclair district's Cross-Age Teaching programs and has trained teachers nationally in the development of their own Cross-Age programs. Most recently she was affiliated with La Verne College Education Department, supervising student teachers in the Claremont-Pomona schools.

Observing the regular school holidays, the work at the learning center will continue for 20 weeks.

Working closely together with the volunteer tutors are those involved in the second major project assumed by the active league membership, the Educational Aids project. Members meet weekly on Thursday afternoons and will be providing many essential teaching aids necessary for the individual needs of students participating in program at the learning center. In addition, the group has been supplying, upon request, a variety of educational tools such as flash cards, reading skill games, bean bags, painting aprons and other general classroom necessities for the Head Start program and other local agencies of learning.

Again, in response to local needs and in order to expand its field of service, the Assistance League initiated its third major project: the Neighborhood Senior Center. Living near the league center at Pearl and Palomares are numerous retired persons, who, due to inadequate public transportation, have limited access to social and recreational facilities available to senior citizens in the valley. To meet the particular needs of this senior group League members have opened their center each Thursday to provide a convenient place where they may gather to socialize, to find others with similar interests, and to see new faces and new places. An active and responsive group meets from 10 a.m. until noon to enjoy a variety of activities which includes cards and games, arts and crafts, refreshments and the opportunity to meet friends and neighbors.

Once a month Assistance League provides luncheon for the members and also plans an occasional trip to places of interest in the Southern California area. In addition, the senior group is invited to join in the making of teaching aids or in other service projects if they should desire to do so.

The Bargain Basket Thrift Shop, located in the lower level of the league center, is the group's major fund-raising operation. Completely managed and staffed by league members, it is open Monday through Thursday from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

In addition, the league raises funds to support its philanthropic projects by sponsoring one or two Spring parties and the annual Garden Party held at Scripps Gardens. The membership relies significantly upon the financial support of local business patrons, along with the league's patronesses and associates.

The local chapter was the seventh to be incorporated into National Assistance League, founded in 1919. The Pomona Valley group has a membership of 200 women with 70 active and provisional members contributing over 8,000 service hours annually. The league also has two active auxiliaries, an honorary associate membership, a sustaining group, and sponsors the Assisteens, composed of daughters of league members who are in the 7th through 12th grades.

Chart spring activity

The Assistance League of Pomona Valley has labeled its latest social activity "The Warehouse Party," an event scheduled at the new Foothill Beverage Co. Warehouse on March 8.

Dancing to the music of the Berger Bros. Band, a midnight supper and a contest and fashion show of zany T-shirts will highlight the evening beginning at 8 p.m. Proceeds from the fun event will go into the League philanthropies.

In charge of events are Mrs. John Pitzer, chairman, and Mmes. William Bentley, Richard Carr, William Chetney, Richard Craveiro, Donald Hamilton, Richard Imwalle, Alan Thomas and Frank Thompson.

Anyone wishing to attend the party may contact any League member for reservations.

PLANNING SESSION

Mrs. Donald Hamilton, Mrs. Alan Thomas and Mrs. Richard Imwalle, from left, take break from planning March 8 party.

LEARNING AIDS

Mrs. Ora Lampman, left, looks over some of the learning aids which will be a part of the center as she discusses teaching techniques with Mrs. Thomas Oglesby.

'Steambath'

Cal Poly stages fantasy by Bruce J. Friedman

By JOSEPH H FIRMAN

Blend an intriguing tantasy with superior acting, professional directing and spectacular state effects and you have the Cal Poly production of "Steambath," which played in the University Theater last weekend.

The Bruce J. Friedman sparkler will be repeated there at 8 p.m. Thursday through Saturday and the following weekend.

"Steambath," staged, directed and paced with imagination and discipline by R. L. Gilbert, is a mind-blowing amalgam of sorrow and happiness, tragedy and humor, a wry allegory with fairly ponderable theological and philosophical overtones. It's an interesting and exciting play, drawing its impetus from a mixed bag of recognizable yet individualistic characters.

"Steambath" is set in a sleazy steambath, in its authenticity and atmosphere a work of theater genius by Michael Levine, who has plied his talents at such disparate institutions as Pomona College and the Mark Taper Forum in Los Angeles. Pipes, valves, a shower that works, an inventive array of lights, a machine that pours out steam and then turns into a nifty one-man elevator — all of these are skillfully arranged and operated to do their work in the cause of verisimilitude without detracting from the play and players.

The steambath is a purgatory of dirty towels and candy wrappers where dead people wait to be sent Up There or Down Below by God, the Puerto Rican bath attendant. Each tells the story of his life, and sometimes death, not like Chaucer's pilgrims swapping anecdotes, but through their casual conversations and interplay of character.

The principals about whom the Steam und Drang swirl are the bath attendant, played by Michael Anderson, and an Angry Young Man, Tandy, played by Barry Moore. Anderson is a swinging delight, a smooth, funny, enigmatic character at once friendly and ominous. Moore's characterization is strong and persuasive, full of naive bewilderment, doubt, outrage and curiosity. In a pivotal role, the young actor proves sensitive and vital.

Ralph McCormic returns to the stage with a hilarious, grumpy, touching portrayal of the Old Timer, a sort of abrasive Charles Laughton in towels and a two-day beard.

Wendi Radford's Meredith is an electric portrayal of Little Girl Lost, another enigma of innocence and worldliness, picking her dainty way, semi-nude, through the recumbent males and the play's conundrums.

Scott Poindexter is an interesting, surprisingly vital Bieberman; William Dunn and Leon Fricke handle tag roles with restraint and humor, and Scott Hawkins offers an aptly ponderous characterization of the health addict stock broker. Billy Masters (What, me worry?), Craig Nelson, Maggi Ellen Hines and Dale Utiger chip in competently in small roles.

"Steambath" is some kind of a production. It's too bad it wasn't chosen as the entry in this year's American College Theater Festival. It would have ranked high.

Big Band U.S.A. set to play at Mr. B's

Fabio's Big Band U.S.A. will perform for listening and dancing from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Sunday at Mr. B's restaurant, 390 Pomona Mall East, Pomona.

The 15-piece band specializes in the swing and jazz of the 1930s and 1940s. The group is made up of veteran musicians who have played with such orchestras as Benny Goodman, Les Brown and Glenn Miller.

This is Big Band's fourth appearance at the Pomona night spot.

The Engineer may, from time to time and at his sole discretion, issue addenda to the contract documents during the period advertising for bids for the following purposes: (a) revising the Calling Wage Scales; (b) clarifying or correcting special provisions, plans or bid proposals; provided, however, that any such addenda shall not change the original character of the project.

Purchasers of contract documents shall be notified of and furnished copies of such addenda, either by certified mail or personal delivery, during the period of advertising.

A proposal may be submitted on forms prepared and furnished for this contract only to those examined at the Information Desk in the Hall of Records, Los Angeles County Road Department Administration Building, 3740 Alcazar Street, Los Angeles, California 90063 at which place orders may also purchase copies of the Plans and Specifications for the contemplated work for the price of $7.14 plus sales tax per set, not refundable. Each submitted proposal must be accompanied by a certified or cashier's check or a surety bond, payable to the County of Los Angeles in an amount equivalent to at least ten (10) percent of the total aggregate bid price of such proposal, as a guarantee that the bidder, if his proposal be accepted, will enter into and execute the awarded contract, and furnish the required bonds in connection therewith, in accordance with the terms of the aforementioned Specifications and Instructions to Bidders. In the event that a surety bond is submitted in lieu of a check, it shall be subject to the condition that the surety thereon be approved by the County Auditor and County Counsel.

The Board of Supervisors reserves the right to reject any or all bids, and to waive technical errors and discrepancies, if to do so seems to best serve the interests of the County.

Pursuant to the provisions of Sections 1770 to 1777, inclusive, of the Labor Code of the State of California, the Board of Supervisors has ascertained the general prevailing rate of per diem wages for each craft or type of workman needed to execute the proposed contract, and it will be required that not less than said rates be paid to all such workmen employed or engaged on the work. Complete wage rate schedules are on file at the offices of the Board of Supervisors and the County Road Department.

The rate of compensation to be paid laborers not listed in said schedule, but which may be required to execute the proposed contract, shall be commensurate with the rates specified for similar or comparable classes of labor and shall not be less than the general prevailing rates for similar or comparable classes of labor.

SPECIAL INSTRUCTIONS TO BIDDERS: Bidders, whether individuals, firms or corporations, shall inform themselves fully as to the conditions relating to location of the work and to such other matters as may affect the cost of the work and the requirements of the specifications, and shall not at any time after submission of the bid dispute, complain, or assert that there was any misunderstanding in regard to the nature or amount of work to be done.

Chapter MG schedules luncheon

Mrs. Marcella Edmiston will present a program, "Happiness Is—Something New," for members of Chapter O, PEO Sisterhood, when the group meets Thursday at 11 a.m.

Hostess will be Mrs. Winston Nelson, 1815 Yorba Drive, Pomona. Assisting hostesses will be Mrs. Raymond Labar, Mrs. John Culbertson and Mrs. Jack Warford.

Mrs. Dawson marks 100th anniversary

Many residents of Hillcrest Homes in La Verne will gather Thursday to celebrate the 100th birthday of Mrs. La-Meta D. Dawson.

Mrs. Dawson was born in Terre Haute, Ind., Feb. 20, 1875, and moved to Hutchinson, Kan., with her parents in 1883. In 1899 she married Benoni L. Dawson and they operated a wheat farm near Hutchinson. The Dawsons were active in church affairs and moved to La Verne when they retired to continue their association with the church.

Mr. Dawson died in 1960, and in 1965 Mrs. Dawson moved into the Brethren Hillcrest Homes. She has a son, Robert H. Dawson of Ruton, N.M., and a daughter, Mrs. Robert D. Hatcher of Washington D.C. Her younger sister, Mrs. J. Nelson Malin, lives in Tucson, Ariz.

Mrs. Dawson was active in church work, Farm Bureau, Federation of Women's Clubs, YWCA, and also taught piano before coming to La Verne. When she was 65, she took up oil painting and completed 20 pictures.

Besides the good wishes of her many close friends in La Verne, Mrs. Dawson has received a special note of greetings and congratulations from President Ford.

World shipping bonanza: an end to the barnacles

NEW YORK (UPI) — The barnacle, the little shellfish that clings to a ship's hull and costs the world's shipping industry hundreds of millions of dollars every year, soon may be relegated to the status of marine curiosity.

After three and a half years in barnacle infested Nicaraguan waters, the "Copper Mariner," the first shrimp trawler built with a copper nickel hull, has proved the barnacle can be completely frustrated, says Eugene W. Thiele of the Copper Development Association, Inc.

So successful has the "Copper Mariner" been that four new shrimp trawlers with copper nickel hulls have been built at Santa Cruz on Mexico's West Coast. They have sailed for Colombia, Ceylon, to start operations for Vincent Fernando, who operates a big fleet in the Indian Ocean and markets shrimp around the world.

Fernando says he expects each of the new 52-foot copper-nickel trawlers to gross $120,000 a year more than a conventional steel or wood trawler plus a $3,000 a year saving in hull maintenance. The savings will come from keeping the trawlers operating continuously — not having to haul them out to scrape and paint the bottom — and from reduced fuel consumption because of the clean hull.

By now the story of the "Copper Mariner" is well known in the shipping world. The big question is can the savings on such a hull made by the highly profitable Indian ocean shrimping industry be made on other kinds of ships.

Thiele says the Copper Development Association believes they can. "We believe that copper-nickel clad steel hulls for large commercial and naval vessels and big yachts will become a reality in the next few years," he said.

"We also are starting research on the possibility of bonding a copper-nickel metallic cladding to large fiberglass hulls."

It all that comes about, not only the barnacle but most saline corrosion of metal hulls would be conquered. The copper-nickel alloy plates used on the shrimp trawlers are solid, according to a spokesman for Revere Copper & Brass, Inc., which supplied them. Copper-nickel cladding already is made for use in some kinds of water and chemical tanks.

Copper has been known as the enemy of the barnacle for two centuries. Wood sailing ships were clad with thin copper sheathing for many years to foil the barnacle and the teredo marine wood boring worm. But this never was totally effective and the sheathing lasted only about 10 years. It was ultimately destroyed by electrolytic reaction on the copper of salt water and the iron nails that held the ship together.

Modern bottom paints containing copper salts used on all kinds of ships and boats are even less effective but since modern ships move much faster than early sailing vessels, they are not quite so vulnerable to the barnacle.

The copper-nickel alloy not only foils the barnacles, Thiele said, it is much more resistant to salt water corrosion than painted steel.

"However, the cost of bottom painting is the smallest saving we envision," Thiele said. "The big gains will be in slashing fuel consumption drastically by always having a clean hull and keeping ships operating practically year-round without being hauled out for maintenance."

Key in Mideast

U.S. helping Shah of Iran flex muscles

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States is quietly helping the Shah of Iran achieve his goal of becoming the major, perhaps dominant, naval power in the Indian Ocean and the oil-rich Persian Gulf.

U.S. military aid to Iran began as a result of an official visit here by Shah Mohamed Reza Pahlevi during the Nixon administration.

Sparked by growing concern over increased Soviet military interest in the Middle East and Indian Ocean, U.S. military aid to Iran has flourished ever since.

Although exact details are not being released, the shah is known to have made major purchases of defense equipment in the United States. He has built an arsenal that is both respected and feared by Arab nations and the Soviet Union.

Much of the U.S military aid has been used to modernize Iran's air force and army. But Iran also is known to have purchased large numbers of ships, and ordered six new destroyers, to strengthen its navy.

The United States sometimes has been unhappy with the shah's policies. The shah has been one of the strongest advocates of high oil prices, for example.

But U.S. officials believe that Iran —an Aryan, non-Arab state in an Arab dominated area —still is the staunchest U.S. ally in that strategic part of the world.

Thus American officials have watched quietly while the shah has flexed Iran's military muscles recently in actions against Iraq and communist inspired rebels in the Arabian emirate of Oman.

Iranian forces have clashed bloodily and frequently in border fights with Iraqi troops, and encouraged Kurdish rebles against the Baghdad regime.

Under a joint agreement signed recently, Iran also has cooperated with military leaders in combating a Soviet sponsored guerrilla insurrection in Oman.

By using both a clenched fist and an olive branch, the shah has served notice he intends that Iran shall dominate the area.

Of particular interest to the United States is Iranian control of the Straits of Hormuz in the Gulf of Oman.

Although hardly known outside the area, the Strait of Hormuz is vital because nearly half of the oil consumed in the non Communist world passes through its 26 miles.

Not all the Arab nations in the Gulf area are happy with the increasing Iranian influence in the area. But none of them, except Iraq which is supported militarily by the Soviet Union, have military forces that can match those of the shah's.

Oman's Foreign Minister said in a recent interview with Washington Post reporter Jim Hoagland that while Oman and Iran could attempt to control the Strait of Hormuz, both countries were committed to a policy of free passage.

But the Omani official added: "Free passage in our dictionary means innocent passage. Anything that comes up to endanger stability here will be stopped. Any form of subversion will be stopped."

Solar heated pools

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Swimming pool owners, with an eye to energy conservation and utility savings, are turning their attention to solar heaters instead of gas consuming pool heaters.

The use of solar energy is not new but the increasing price of gas has prompted pool owners to take a close look at the merits of solar heaters, said Eugene R. Rageel, president of Patio Pools, one of this desert community's major pool contractors.

"There is really no limit to the heating capacity of them," Rageel said. "We've got the sunshine to make them go. The more area you cover with plastic the more efficient it becomes."

So far about a dozen homes have the units, manufactured by Fafco of Redwood City, Calif., he said.

The solar heater warms the pool water by pumping it through large black plastic strips which absorb the sun's rays. The strips are four by ten feet and are laid on a 30-degree incline to the sun on either the roof of the house or in the yard.

The initial outlay for the heaters is more than its gas counterpart. The plastic strippings, pipings and installation cost about $1,000 compared to $500 for a gas heater. However, there are no monthly utility bills for the sun's services.

There are still some bugs to be worked out. "They've got a product that works, but a lot of problems with it that they didn't expect," Rageel said.

The main problems are the size and the elements. To do an efficient job of heating a pool it takes an area three-quarters the size of the pool.

"If you can't put the plastic strippings on your roof you have to have the ground space for it, and many people do not have that much land. There have also been problems with the plastic cracking from expansion and contraction from daytime to nighttime temperatures."

There's one other major problem. A gas heater increases water temperature by 25 degrees. The solar heaters are lucky to hit half that, he said.

"A lot of these problems are manmade, caused by a lack of knowing how originally," said Rageel. "Once its perfected it will be pretty effective."

Sleeping pills

NEW YORK (UPI) — Non-prescription sleeping pills — the kind advertised widely on TV — have no more medical effect than a peppermint, says Dr. Arthur Raines, an expert on the effects of drugs on the nerves.

"Most of the sleeping pills you can buy over the counter in a drugstore are a waste of money," Dr. Raines said. "They usually contain an antihistamine as the sleep inducing drug," he explained.

The poll, announced recently, said that 67 per cent of the 1,005 New Jerseyans surveyed said they favor offshore oil exploration and 26 per cent oppose the plan.

Amidst controversy

Tallest building nearing completion

TORONTO (UPI) — The world's tallest building is soaring toward completion in downtown Toronto—but the rest of a grandiose plan surrounding it may never be achieved.

The $1.5 billion project has bogged down in bitterness amid protests from anti-development "reformers" and conflicts over construction costs.

The 200-acre Metro Center complex, fronting Lake Ontario, was originally planned seven years ago as the largest downtown redevelopment program in North America.

It was to comprise four major elements—an integrated transportation center, a communications and broadcasting complex, a fashionable commercial area of shops and offices and a residential section with homes for 22,000 in a greenbelt setting.

Work began on a communications and observation tower two years ago. Now the CN tower, owned by the Canadian National Railroad, reaches up 1,480 feet to dominate the waterfront. Next month a giant work helicopter owned by a Los Angeles company is expected to begin 44 flights to carry a 335-foot needle-shaped television transmission mast into position atop the tower.

The building will then rise to 1,815 feet compared with 1,250 feet for the Empire State Building and 1,350 feet for the World Trade Center, both in New York City, and 1,454 feet for the Sears Building in Chicago.

But while work on the tower has proceeded smoothly, problems have snarled the rest of the project.

Complex negotiations involved three levels of government—federal, provincial and municipal—and two major railroad companies. The issue embraced crucial questions about transportation needs and city development for the year 2000 and beyond.

Consultants produced masses of reports, maps and graphs. Opponents raised shrill cries of protest. The economic climate went sour. Agreement remained elusive.

Now another task force has been set up with orders to produce a report by March 31.

"The moment of truth is with us," says Stewart Andrews, President of Metro Center Development Ltd. "Either the city wants the project or it doesn't.

"If the plan falls through, I think those responsible would be guilty of failing in their responsibilities to future generations. It would be a very improper decision in every way, shape and form."

Andrews blamed anti-development forces for distorting and misrepresenting the project so that the public—and even some members of City council—have become confused and uncertain about it.

"In fact, it is probably the most exciting development concept in the world," he said. "There is nothing in the area now but a lot of nondescript buildings and acres of railroad lines.

"We have a chance, in the transportation field alone, to bring together mainline and commuter railroad services, the subway system, an intercity bus depot and Toronto's first downtown air terminal.

"Transportation experts from the Soviet Union, the United States, Britain, Japan and other countries have come to study the project. All have been tremendously impressed."

The center also would include at least 36 acres of parkland, a new concert hall for the Toronto Symphony Orchestra, a convention center, hotel and trade mart and a network of enclosed malls and open-air promenades for shoppers and visitors.

But even if the rest of the plan collapses, the CN tower will still be there, a new world landmark. It is expected to attract two million visitors a year to two observation decks, a revolving restaurant, a ground-level skating rink and other facilities.

"Our whole theme will be wrapped around entertainment," a Tower spokesman said. "It will be a family and fun place.

"Having seen many other towers around the world we came to the conclusion that you have to provide more than just a view and a ride up and down in an elevator."

Sportsmen's paradise

Paradis, La., southwest of New Orleans, is so-called because the surrounding country, abounding in a great variety of game, was considered a "sportsman's paradise," according to the Louisiana Tourist Commission.

Georgia senate defeats ERA

ATLANTA (UPI) — The Georgia Senate Monday defeated the proposed Equal Rights Amendment 33-22.

The Georgia House of Representatives has yet to consider the proposal during its current session, but defeated it in 1974. It had been given an even slimmer chance of passing the House than it had the state Senate.

The vote came less than an hour after the Senate took up the issue before a gallery packed mostly with women. Democratic Sen. Horace Tate, who sponsored the amendment along with Sen. Julian Bond, said he would seek reconsideration of the adverse vote.

Fertile circle

The U.S. Department of Agriculture says the farms within a 600-mile radius of Kansas City account for 78 per cent of the nation's wheat, 89 per cent of its hogs, 80 per cent of the cattle, 90 per cent of the corn, 93 per cent of the sorghum and 89 per cent of the soybeans.

Women's lib is putting dent in perfume trade

PARIS (UPI) — Christmas shoppers failed to bring the usual amount of cheer to the perfume makers of France, and the industry has few illusions about prospects improving in the coming year.

The falling off in demand for perfume is not new. Gradually, over the last three years, perfume sales have been declining to a point 20 per cent below their 1970 level. Women's liberation has been seen as the primary culprit, as working women have tended to turn away from the headier scents of the past in favor of the lighter and cheaper varieties of scented toilet waters. Now, recession has come along to add a new dimension to the industry's plight.

Estimated turnover for 1974 is only 10 per cent higher than the year before which means a stagnating volume of sales, considering the rise in prices.

Admittedly, the less profitable market for scented toilet waters is growing (4.9 million four-ounce bottles sold in 1973), as is the demand for men's toiletries and scented colognes. The latter, however, only represents 9 per cent of total home production and is not expected to make spectacular advances until men get into the habit of shopping for themselves.

The brightest ray of hope is in exports, which in the first nine months of 1974 were already up by a quarter over 1973. Well planned export drives are paying dividends in countries like Japan, until recently only a small importer, but now the industry's eighth best client. Saudi Arabia, too, doubled its imports within a year. But no foreign market is regarded as saturated, with Brazil and the Arab world promising the fastest growth.

Germany remains the industry's top client, followed by Italy, with Belgium and Luxembourg close behind. The United States trails in fourth place — which is partly due to an earlier boycott of French goods, but also to the many licensing agreements operative on the spot.

Just how much foreign currency perfume earns for France is unknown, for the 1.2 billion francs export figure does not include royalties to firms with licensing agreements all over the world.

Dior, Guerlain and Rochas among them cover a quarter of the French perfume market. Of the three, Guerlain is in a class of its own, not only as the oldest and still one of the liveliest perfume firms but also as one without ties with the fashion world. Most of the other celebrated perfume makers have fashion house names, and being far more profitable than high fashion, have kept the couture businessout of the red.

Nearly every perfume house is also in the cosmetics business. This has the advantage of year-round sales, while demand for perfume is essentially seasonal.

But today, such diversification does not go far enough to relieve the industry's greatest headache, which is the dramatic rise in the cost of the vegetable and mineral raw materials essential to high-quality perfume.

The top firms have had to decide whether to enter the mass market at the risk of debasing their luxury product, or put up with flagging sales in a limited and selected number of retail outlets to maintain their product's traditional image and mystique.

They have chosen the latter path and refused to become only a branch of the chemical industry, use synthetic ingredients, and cease to be an art form. The high priests of this art are a small band known as "Noses," whose sensitivity to smells enables them to choose from among 2,000 different odors a blend of 50 or so vegetable, mineral and synthetic products which will produce a quality scent.

A new "quality" scent is among the latest of consumer commodities. The three best-selling perfumes all are at least 50 years old: Chanel No. 5., Arpege by Lanvin and Shalimar by Guerlain. The real veteran of the industry, Guerlain's Jicky, was created in 1889 and still has a following today.

The current nostalgia for the Twenties has just made Coty revive its old-timer, "Complice," which was less risky than launching a new perfume, as well as much cheaper.

This nostalgia may yet lead to a perfume revival. If the fad for the romantic and exotic is not too short-lived, it may enable the industry to regain lost ground.

Garey on scoring spree

By GRAHAM CROW
P-B Correspondent

People are starting to get the feeling that Garey High School likes to score 100 points or more each basketball game.

After all, the Vikings fans like the number one in front of anything connected with their heroes.

It was another scoring spree for the top-rated CIF-3A club as the Vikings rolled to their 18th straight win of the year, and 13th in San Antonio League action, with a 107-60 drubbing of host Upland.

It was another classy production for Mike Wells' crew as Garey opened up a 55-18 halftime advantage and was never threatened in the 32 minutes of action.

Garey seems to be peaking at just the right time of year. Only Ganesha stands between the Vikings and a perfect SAL record with the CIF playoffs starting next week.

Having scored 111 points Friday night and 107 Tuesday, the Vikings are now averaging 92 points per outing in SAL play. But equally impressive is a defense which has limited league foes to just 66 points each contest.

In case the 92 point average doesn't impress you, remember that this is high school ball where only 32 minutes of action occurs. A similar point production in college ball would yield 115 points in college's 40 minutes and an incredible 138 points in the pros.

While the team as a whole may be playing its best basketball of the year, one individual for Garey definitely had his most productive afternoon.

Big David Larry came into his own Tuesday as the 6-6 Viking center scored 20 points and hauled in 22 rebounds.

"We knew all along that David could be a great player," Wells commented after the win. "We really rode him this week and almost threatened not to start him. He sure responded well."

Larry had quite a bit of help from his frontcourt teammates as forwards Delbert McDonald and Gary Carpenter added 26 and 22 points respectively.

McDonald, the SAL's leading scorer, did his damage despite fouling out with one minute to go in the third quarter. Delbert also pulled in 13 rebounds as Garey enjoyed a huge 56-24 rebounding edge.

The game was never close with Garey opening up a 16-2 lead in the first three minutes. Guard Bill Evans was the most effective player in the first period with 12 points.

Evans, however, suffered a minor sprain of his right foot just before the first quarter ended and had ice on it after the game. It was not believed serious, however.

Upland appeared awestruck at playing the number one team and shot just 30 per cent the first half. Then, forgetting who they were against and concentrating on their own game, the Highlanders put together two 21 point quarters in the final half.

Dominic Licavoli was high for Upland with 14 while Dave Duncan added 10. Mark Sorenson came off the bench to add 10 while Kent Jordan was sparkling once again off the bench for Garey with 14.

Speaking of Thursday's crucial, Wells said, "Surprisingly our guys don't get up for Ganesha as much as for Pomona. But I've never had a team want a championship as much as this one. We really want to go 14-0 in league and then win the whole thing (CIF)."

Ganesha's high-scoring sixth man, George Terry (33) is surrounded by Damien's Bill Duffy (15), Jon Kolodge (partially hidden) and Cornell Kasbergen (35) during Tuesday's SAL action. Terry scored 17 points in Ganesha victory.

La Verne College's grievous error

La Verne College and Cal Baptist College are finding out the hard way the cost of using ineligible players.

The fact that neither school did it intentionally doesn't matter. It's like the law. If you break it, even unknowingly, you are still responsible.

Both schools now are ineligible for the NAIA basketball playoffs. Under the rules, they could also be excluded from post-season competition in ALL sports although that wasn't the recommendation made by the district committee.

The committee, composed of seven athletic directors from District III, met last Friday and reviewed the findings of the three-man eligibility committee.

Their decision was that both La Verne and Cal Baptist must forfeit all games in which an ineligible player appeared (eight for La Verne, 22 for Cal Baptist) and are ineligible to appear in post season competition in basketball. Derrick Yopp of La Verne loses two seasons of eligibility, one for the time he played while ineligible and one for the time he played (after Jan. 21) when he became eligible.

As explained by Dr. Warren Emery of Caltech, District III Chairman, that is the minimum penalty. The maximum could exclude the schools from participation in post-season activities in all sports.

Final decision due

The recommendations have forwarded to the national committee chaired by Dr. Albert Bettina of Eastern New Mexico College. That group can either follow the recommendations or make the penalty lighter or more severe.

The situation is particularly frustrating to Athletic Director Roland Ortmayer and coach Art Bias of La Verne. Extreme emphasis was placed on examining athletes' transcripts to determine eligibility.

"We went through them with a fine tooth comb," sighed Ortmayer. "We found two or three cases where we had to declare players ineligible.

"But, he continued, "we were so busy concentrating on quality that we forgot about quantity. We never got Yopp's transcripts and nobody realized it was missing."

So Ortmayer, Bias, the athletic office secretary and the registrar's office, four parties in all, closely examined the transcripts on hand.

A list of non eligible players was made up. But Yopp's name was not on the list because Yopp's transcripts hadn't been received and, hence, hadn't been examined at all!

Yopp had played briefly, in eight varsity games and several jaycee games. Ironically, he never played more than three or four minutes at a time in varsity competition and was never considered a starter.

More irony is added when you consider that the Leopards lost the only two conference games (to Whittier and Occidental) in which Yopp played. Then, the discrepancy was discovered.

Could hardly believe it

"We can hardly believe it," said Ortmayer. "Our staff worked so hard to make sure every boy was eligible. But we were so busy concentrating so heavily on what was in the transcripts that we overlooked the number of them and one was missing."

Ort pointed out that final eligibility list for each sport is not due until the season is halfway through.

In fall sports including football, the final list isn't due until Oct. 15 although the season starts in Sept. The deadline for winter sports including basketball is Jan. 15 and the season starts by Dec. 1. The Leos had their first track meet last Saturday and baseball begins this Saturday. Yet the spring sports eligibility list deadline is not until April 15.

"We can ask for these forms from the registrar earlier," Ortmayer explained. "But if I ask for the basketball transcripts by Dec. 1, and the registrar asks me when the deadline is and I tell him Jan. 15, when do you think I'm going to get them?

"If these forms had been in our hands by Dec. 1, he wouldn't have been playing."

The athletic staff apparently got the forms near the Jan. 15 deadline. Yopp was overlooked, or the fact that his transcripts weren't there was overlooked, and no one discovered the mistake until Jan. 21.

"It wasn't a case of someone detecting us doing something," Ortmayer said. "It was something we discovered ourselves and reported immediately."

DISCUSSING PITCHING

Angels' manager Dick Williams talks to pitcher Bill Singer about spring training at Tuesday's speech in Pomona.

Dick Williams predicts wins

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

As expected, Angels' manager Dick Williams made a big impression Tuesday afternoon in his visit to the Pomona Rotary Club.

Williams and five of his players were on hand at the club's weekly meeting at the Pomona Elks Lodge 789 as part of the baseball team's promotions.

The Angels are especially eager to tap the Pomona market because of the completion of the Orange Freeway to the centerfield gates of Anaheim Stadium at Katella Avenue.

"We're only 20 minutes away now if you drive at 55 miles per hour," reminded Tom Seeberg, the Angels' Director of Sales and Marketing.

Williams did his part in inviting the Rotarians to the Big A along with Pomona native Bill Singer, Frank Tanana, Joe Lahoud, Tom Egan and Bruce Bochte.

"We're only a short drive down the freeway," Williams said. "I'm not going to guarantee you a pennant but I will say we're going to win more than we lose this year."

This is the time of year when every baseball team dreams of pennants.

Even though the Angels finished in last place in the American League West last summer, Williams is hopeful.

"We lack the power but we'll have excellent speed, good pitching and an improved defense," the energetic Angels' skipper said.

Obviously, the biggest problem in the Western Division is trying to compete with the Oakland A's who have won three consecutive World Championships.

"With Catfish Hunter leaving Oakland for the Yankees, the Western Division pennant should be up for grabs," Williams said. "Catfish meant a difference of 13 wins for Oakland last year."

Williams mentioned he is a fortunate man.

"It seems like I've been in the right place at the right time. I took over a Boston team which had lots of talent but had not been supervised correctly," he said. "When Charlie Finley called and offered me the Oakland job, I guess I was the only one who would take the job. Again, the A's were a team just ready to develop into a championship club.

"Again, I feel I am in the right place. The motor for success had already started for the Angels when they hired general manager Harry Dalton. His progress can be noticed by looking at how our farm system has developed in three years. The Angels are definitely moving forward."

In discussing the 1975 prospects, Williams mentioned the average age of the club is only 24½.

"I feel we have the best starting pitchers in all of baseball with Nolan Ryan, a healthy Bill Singer and two young lefthanders, Frank Tanana and Andy Hassler. We will also have outstanding speed in Tommy Harper, Mickey Rivers and Morris Nettles. I will predict they will steal 150 bases between them" the skipper said.

Garvey agrees to Dodger pact

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — National League Most Valuable Player Steve Garvey Tuesday signed his 1975 contract with the Los Angeles Dodgers for an estimated $95,000.

Garvey led the league with 200 hits last year and hit .312 with 21 home runs and 111 RBIs, a Dodger high.

Giants recover quickly

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

Ganesha High was almost caught looking ahead Tuesday afternoon.

But the Giants, now primed for their confrontation with league-leading Garey Thursday night, capitalized on Damien High mistakes to record a 77-67 victory over the host Spartans in San Antonio League play.

"We were ready for Thursday night today," said Ganesha head coach Gary Fulkerson. "I don't want to take anything away from Damien. They're a good ball club. But we were pretty flat in that first half."

Ganesha had to come back from a six-point halftime deficit to outscore the Spartans, 46-30, in the final 16 minutes of action.

The victory leaves Ganesha just one game behind the CIF 3-A's No. 1 ranked Garey Vikings in the SAL standings. The two will meet in the regular season finale Thursday night in a game which will be taped by KNBC-TV and then televised Saturday afternoon.

What was probably more important in the outcome is the fact Damien lost. The Spartans, now four games behind Ganesha, have to share third place in the standings with Chino.

With only one game left to play (that being Friday night), both must win to have any hope for a post-season playoff berth. There's a possibility, due to the toughness of the league, that the CIF will accept three SAL teams to compete in the playoffs. But . . if there's a tie for third, the CIF officials might bypass the league in filling an at-large berth.

Damien, now 8-5 in league play and 17-8 overall, will visit Pomona in its finale. Chino, meanwhile, will take its 8-5 and 15-10 records to Claremont Friday night.

Now everybody will focus on Thursday night's titantic between the two powerhouses in the SAL.

"The whole school's been talking about it," commented Fulkerson. "Even my players were talking about it yesterday at practice. It's tough to keep the guys from looking ahead to a game like that."

That could be one of the reasons for the Giants' slow start Tuesday.

Damien, behind the shooting of forward Mike Wetenkamp, center Cornell Kasbergen and guard Bill Duffy, jumped out to a 16-10 lead by the end of the first period against the league's defending champions.

The Spartans hit their first seven field goal in the second quarter, but couldn't pull away—mainly due to numerous turnovers. Wetenkamp's two free throws after time had expired in the first half gave the Spartans only a six-point lead, 37-31.

Ganesha then reeled off the first six points of the third quarter to knot up the ball game. The contest was tied three more times before the Giants could outscore the hosts, 12-4, in the closing minutes of the quarter.

Ganesha had no less than a five-point lead and no more than a 12 point advantage throughout the final eight minute-stanza.

Little Ralph Dudley (5-foot-6), the Ganesha leader and the steadiest player on the floor, was the sparkplug for the Giants. Bucking the odds and driving through the lane with uncontested left-handed layups, Ralph finished the afternoon with 16 points.

George "Super-Sub" Terry, however, won the team's scoring honors when he came off the bench early in the game to pot 17 markers. He replaced starting guard Cleve Bell, who saw only limited action early in the contest.

Wetenkamp was high-point man in the game with 22 points and 10 rebounds.

Nicklaus, Miller head golfers into L.A. Open

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The second chapter of pro golf's Great Confrontation —Jack Nicklaus vs. Johnny Miller — gets under way at the tough Riviera Country Club Thursday with the Glen Campbell Los Angeles Open.

Nicklaus, 35, and the 27-year-old Miller didn't settle anything when they met at Pebble Beach, Calif., four weeks ago. They finished in a tie for sixth place in the Bing Crosby Pro-Am, nine shots behind winner Gene Littler.

For Nicklaus, winner of 14 major tournaments in his brilliant career, it will be his third start of 1975 while Miller, who set a record by winning $353,021 last year, is entered in his sixth.

Miller has won three of the first six tour events of the year, capturing the Phoenix Open, the Dean Martin Tucson Open and the Bob Hope Desert Classic. In the Andy Williams San Diego Open which was won in sudden death by J.C. Snead last weekend, Miller tied for 16th place and won $2,380 to give him $110,723 for 1975.

"I think this is good for me and it's good for the game," said Nicklaus' who won only two tournaments last year. "Any time you have a challenge it gives you a little extra incentive.

"At 35, I feel I'm in the prime of my golfing life. But I don't like to say I'm a better player than someone else. I'll let my golf clubs prove that."

Miller, the heir apparent, and Nicklaus, the king, may meet in the Heritage Classic at Hilton Head, S.C., next month but they're both pointing to the manicured, carefully tended greens and rolling southern hills of the Augusta (Ga.) National Golf Course April 10-13, the Masters.

"I'm really looking forward to Augusta this year," said Nicklaus. "I hope Johnny's playing well, too. Maybe we can have a shootout at the O.K. Corral."

Nicklaus and Miller head an outstanding field in the last of the seven Western tournaments that annually open the pro circuit.

La Verne can still win SCIAC title

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

La Verne is concentrating on winning the conference title and Azusa Pacific is concentrating on getting into the playoffs.

Those were among the topics of discussion at the weekly basketball luncheon Tuesday at the Castaway Restaurant.

Delbert McDonald of Garey was honored for the second time as High School Player of the Week by Pomona Elks Lodge 789. Voted College Player of the Week was forward Brandon Boyd of Pomona-Pitzer. Boyd will receive a plaque donated by Foothill Beverage Co.

McDonald, a 6-5 forward, scored 74 points last week as Garey defeated Pomona and Claremont in SAL action. Boyd scored 42 points, grabbed 14 rebounds and had nine assists in two Pomona-Pitzer wins.

La Verne College and Azusa Pacific felt the effects, APC indirectly, last week of findings of the NAIA District III Eligibility Committee. The effect on La Verne was extremely negative. On APC it was very positive.

La Verne, because of using an ineligible player (See column this page), has been ruled ineligible for any post season competition, but is still eligible for the SCIAC title since the ineligible player did not play in any conference victories.

Azusa Pacific picked up an NAIA Southern Division win from Cal Baptist via forfeit (Cal Baptist used two ineligible players) and also won division games from Biola and UC San Diego.

"I think the penalty was pretty severe," said La Verne coach Art Bias. "The ineligible player, Derrick Yopp, is losing two seasons of eligibility because of someone else's mistake.

"And," continued Bias, "all the players who have worked so hard all season long are being penalized. I think the type of mistake that was made and the fact that we reported it ourselves should have been taken into consideration.

"Our kids are feeling low. But we can still win the conference title and I think our players still have enough pride to win although they were feeling pretty low last week."

APC coach Cliff Hamlow was happy about the three division wins including the one via forfeit. "It's not the ideal way of getting a win," he remarked "but this year I'll take them any way they come."

What bothered Hamlow was that Cal Baptist had at first refused to admit that they had to forfeit any games. They were still giving their record as 6-2 in division play (instead of 3-5) saying they "hadn't been informed officially of anything yet."

"I don't know how they could say that," Hamlow said. "They were present at Friday's meeting and we read them the rule and the penalty."

Hamlow served on the seven-member committee, with six other athletic directors from NAIA schools, which reviewed the facts of the violations and recommended the penalties which were also meted out to Cal St. Dominquez as well as La Verne and Cal Baptist.

Cal Poly women go after basketball crown

The Cal Poly women's basketball squad will be shooting for the Southern California Women's Intercollegiate Athletic Conference crown tonight as it travels to Long Beach to tangle with co-SCWIAC leader Long Beach St. Game time is slated for 7:45 p.m. at the 49ers gym.

Going into Wednesday's battle, the Bronco women and Long Beach stand dead even in conference play with identical 8-1 records. Cal Poly sports a 10-2 overall ledger following Monday's 88-57 rout of UC Riverside.

The Poly women's hoop squad surprised the more experienced 49ers team 61-56 earlier in the year at the CP women's guym, but a loss to USC has kept the Broncos knotted with Long Beach for the top spot.

Coach Darlene May's squad will be riding the scoring power of Mary Reichert and Kathy Browning and a superior height advantage over Long Beach, while the 49er women are led by forward Cartie Hicks and guard Kathy Canty.

A win tonight for Cal Poly will give coach May's team a good shot at post-season tourney activity, as the Bronco women are seeking entry in the WAIAW Regional Tournament at UC Santa Barbara to be held March 6-8.

'Hens travel to Redlands for big game

Pomona-Pitzer takes to the road tonight in the first of four final crucial basketball games in its uphill battle for at least a share of the conference title.

While the Sagehens (5-3) travel to Redlands (6-2), Claremont-Mudd (1-7) figures to improve its record with a road game at Caltech, (0-9).

"It's going to be a tough week," admitted Pomona's Les Nagler. "Two away this week (at Redlands tonight and La Verne Saturday). And next week isn't any easier although we do play two at home. I think we have the toughest schedule now of any of the contenders."

Nagler's team hosts first place Occidental (10-2) Monday night and takes on second place Redlands again next Wednesday.

Occidental is at Whittier tonight and will be winding up its season when it comes to Memorial Gym next Monday. By that time it could be a battle for first place. But first the 'Hens have to get by Redlands tonight and La Verne Saturday.

"We aren't even thinking about La Verne yet let alone Oxy," said Nagler. "We've got to win every game now and each one beginning tonight could end our chances."

The Sagehens' scoring tandem of Geoff Northrup and Brandon Boyd seem to get better each week. Northrup had 31 points and 24 rebounds in the two victories last week. Boyd scored 42 points and grabbed 14 rebounds.

Northrup is averaging 22.8 points per game in conference play and is the leader in both scoring and rebounding. Overall, the 6-5 sophomore is av-

Mounties must get by Coast before facing SCC leaders

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

COSTA MESA —Mt. San Antonio College has only three games left on the schedule in the South Coast Conference basketball race and two of the contests are with contenders Santa Ana and Cerritos.

But the Mounties have to get by last place Orange Coast here tonight at 7:30 before they can start to think about the leaders—Cerritos at home Saturday night and Santa Ana at Santa Ana next Wednesday.

Coast pulled the upset of the year last Wednesday night, stunning previously unbeaten Santa Ana, 63-58, to turn the South Coast into a race instead of a runaway.

Since the upset by Coast over Santa Ana, the Mounties have had just about everything break their way. They beat Fullerton and San Diego Mesa back-to-back and learned earlier this week that they picked up at least one non-conference victory from Pasadena City College which has an ineligible player and must forfeit some of its wins.

So their overall record, at least unofficially, going into tonight's game is 22-3. Coast is 8-18, struggling through a season that reached the high water mark in the stunner over Santa Ana.

Before the year began, a banner season was predicted for the Pirates who had a 7-foot forward in the fold and high hopes because of him.

Steve Manker is his name and he's lived up to expectations. The Pirates, unfortunately haven't.

Manker leads the team in scoring and is one of the top rebounders. He's averaging 18.6 points and eight rebounds to rank sixth in both departments.

Manker hasn't been the dominant force MSAC's George Schader has been however.

Schader, a Covina High product who spent a year at Nevada-Las Vegas before transferring back to the valley, has maintained a point average above 20 all season.

But in his last half dozen games, the 6-foot-6, 215 pounder has really caught fire, averaging better than 30 points per game.

Coach Gene Victor, who has had a number of fine athletes in 16 seasons at the helm, says Schader may be the best ever—" he does everything well."

While the Mounties tangle with the Bucs, the big game in the SCC involves the leaders, Santa Ana visits Cerritos. Santa Ana won the first game between the two, 85-74. In the other South game, San Diego Mesa hosts Fullerton.

In the Mission Conference, meanwhile, Southwestern visits Citrus in a game at the bottom of the standings. Front running Riverside hosts San Diego, two contenders battle at San Bernardino when Saddleback visits and Palomar invades Grossmont.

Garey blanks Pomona, 2-0

Garey High pulled into a tie for fourth place in the San Antonio League soccer standings by blanking cross-town rival Pomona, 2-0.

The Vikings, now 6-4-2 in league competition and locked up with Ganesha, got their goals from Joe Trejo and Jesse Parrilla.

Pomona's record drops to 0-11-1 in SAL play.

The contest was a makeup of a game rained out last week. Both the Vikings and the Devils were due back in action today, with Garey visiting Webb and Pomona traveling to Chino.

Damien and Webb are scheduled to make up a previously postponed game Thursday afternoon at 2:30 p.m. on the Spartans' field.

Cal Baptist hurts Azusa for playoffs

Expecting a psychological lift from a forfeit victory from Cal Baptist this week, coach Cliff Hamlow was disappointed Tuesday night as his Azusa Pacific College basketball team dropped a 104-91 decision to the Lancers on the Azusa court.

The loss all but knocked the Cougars (4-4) out of contention in the NAIA District III Southern Division. The win didn't do much for Cal Baptist which was stung by forfeitures because of ineligible players.

The Lancers shot at a withering 59 per cent rate from the field Tuesday and were never headed by the Cougars who closed to within six points once in the second half. Cal Baptist rad leads of 20 points twice.

Chino product Kevin Finnerty led the Lancers with 28 points and the other four starters were in double figures also. Ken Lukhard came off the bench to lead the Cougars with 24 points. Mike Leatherby had 13 and Steve Gustin added 10.

Cowboys pull into third

Chino tops Devils

By SCOTT POINDEXTER
P-B Correspondent

Behind a 52-point Chino High forward line, the Cowboys demolished the Pomona Red Devils, 66-50, in the next to the last San Antonio League season game for both teams Tuesday afternoon.

Dirk Story led the Chino attack with 16 first-half points, added another eight in the second half to finish with 24. The two forwards, Mike Coppess and Jim Love, added 18 and 10, respectively.

The Cowboys, now tied with Damien for third place, jumped out to a big 15-8 first quarter lead, and the Red Devils could never close to within closer than four.

Story found the range from the floor in the first period, and found the hoop from the charity stripe in the second. All told, Story was 10 for 14 in field goals and four of six from the free throw line.

The Pomona player that posed the biggest threat was Sam Davis, hitting eight shots from the floor, two baskets in each quarter, for a total of 16 points. No other Red Devil was in the double figure mark.

The second quarter was the real blitz by the Cowboys, making 11-14 free throws and outscoring Pomona 19-10. By half, the score was Chino 34, Pomona 18.

A prime factor in the control by the Cowboys was their ability to dominate the backboards. Chino had 21 rebounds to only 11 for the Devils.

Coppess took over for Story as the point-producer in the second half. Missing only one shot and hitting five, Coppess wrecked Pomona's bid to try and make a game of it.

Pat Riggins found the range on three quick baskets in the third quarter and John Weiman and Tony Pitts popped in four points apiece in the fourth period, but the 16-point half-time lead was just too much.

Manny Delgado, Chino playmaker, scored seven of his 11 in the final eight minutes to wind up in the double-figure column.

Chino will end its SAL season Friday night against the Claremont Wolfpack, which might decide a playoff berth for the Cowboys. Pomona ends up in the other decider against Damien. Both Damien and Chino have 8-5 league marks.

Chaffey shocks Pacific to remain alive, 79-64

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

Chaffey High is still breathing.

The Tigers, with only two games remaining in their Citrus Belt League schedule, kept their CIF playoff hopes alive Tuesday night by knocking off league-leading Pacific, 79-64.

Chaffey (7-6) now trails co-leaders Pacific (9-4) and San Gorgonio (9-4) by only two games. The Tigers still have to face third-place Fontana (8-5) and last-place Eisenhower (2-11) in the stretch run.

Really the only hope Chaffey has of reaching the playoffs is to finish second which would call for two losses from either Pacific or San Gorgonio.

It took a 31-point, fourth-quarter outburst by Chaffey to keep the Tigers somewhat alive in the playoff picture. Going into the final period of play, they only led by one point, 48-47.

The lead changed hands three times and the game was deadlocked on two other occasions before Chaffey forward Brian Jacobs, who finished the night with 31 points and seven rebounds, put the Tigers up by five with a free throw at the four-minute mark, 61-56. Pacific guard Bob Roddy trimmed that to three points, 61-58, on a pair of charity tosses, but then Chaffey won it going away in the closing three and a half minutess.

The game was saturated with fouls. Pacific was charged with 30 infractions and watched three of its starters foul out of the game.

Chaffey was tagged with 18 fouls, and had one starter pick up five personals.

Chaffey forward Mark McQuaid, who has been the valley's leading scorer for most of the season, was the only other Tiger to score in double figures—pumping in 20 points while grabbing 13 boards.

Roddy land forward Paul Hammer collected 18 and 17 points, respectively, for Pacific.

Western Christian annihilated American Christian, 110-42, in Academy League play, and CIF 1-A's No. 1 ranked Big Bear whipped Webb, 83-51, in Arrowhead League competition.

Forwards Gregg Guenther and Dale Pomo scored 31 and 30 points, respectively, to lead La Verne Lutheran to its second win of the season. The Trojans are now 1-12 in league play and 2-16 overall. They'll host Webb Friday night at 8:30 p.m. in the Bonita High gym.

Wolves win ho-hummer, 63-40

Easy one for 'Pack

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Correspondent

It's been a long basketball season for both Claremont and Montclair highs but Tuesday's San Antonio League matchup seemed like an entire season in itself.

Coach Jack Smith's Wolfpack erupted for 23 fourth-quarter points to rout Montclair, 63-40, in a low-scoring, inartistic affair at the Cavalier gym.

Neither team shot especially well. Claremont hit 38.6 per cent of its shots (29-of-75) while Montclair concluded with a dismal 24.6 effort (16-of-65). Both teams utilized a spread, passing offense for three periods to account for the low score.

Leading 40-29, the Wolves (13-13 overall, 4-9 in the SAL) switched from their passing game into a fast-break offense at the start of the final eight-minute stanza. The result: An 11-for-22 field goal quarter and 23 points. Montclair had just 11 points.

Center Mike Toomay paced the fourth-quarter outburst with eight markers and four rebounds while forward Rob Fossum added six points and two blocked shots.

"We played better today than we have in the last couple of games," said Smith, after the contest. "We hit better from the outside and went to the boards well. It was a good win for us . . they beat us the last time."

The Wolves did go to the boards well. Toomay finished with 13 rebounds while Fossum and freshman center Derek Britton grabbed 11 caroms each.

The Cavs spent most of the first half playing catchup but only trailed by nine points (21-12) early in the second quarter when the Pack tallied nine unanswered markers at the end of the first stanza and beginning of the second. Coach Lanny Moore's Cavs (7-17 overall, 1-12 in the SAL) spurted to trail 26-23 by intermission.

Claremont began to pull away with eight straight points at the start of the third period and led 40-29 by the final tip-off.

Fossum wasn't consistently "awesome" as he went in spurts to finish with 16 points, six assists, four blocked shots and six steals. Toomay wasn't "too much" until the final period when he tallied eight of his 12 markers. The league's No. 2 scorer at 19.6 points per game hit on only one-of-eight shots in the first half.

Gary Barry Sayles played one of his better games. The 5-10 guard scored 16, including 12 in the first half and chipped in four assists. Britton, the 6-5 frosh center, scored 10 by the start of the final quarter where he retired to the bench with four personals and never returned to the court.

Claremont's Mike Toomay is now second with a 21.5 average, while McQuaid and teammate Brian Jacobs are averaging 20.9 and 20.5 points an outing.

Bulls whip lowly Lakers

CHICAGO (UPI) — Six Chicago Bulls scored in double figures, topped by Bob Love with 27 points, to help produce a team scoring high for the season with a 128-105 triumph over the Los Angeles Lakers Tuesday night.

It was the Bulls' fourth straight win, their 10th in the last 11 games and their 10th straight home court win, a team record. Los Angeles took its seventh defeat in the last nine games.

The game was close only in the first period when the score was tied nine times and the Lakers led eight times, but never by more than four points. In the second period, the Bulls led by as many as 15 points and in the third period by as many as 17 in coasting to the win.

Diamond Bar's Hoffman to race

Las Vegas, Nevada . . . Jim Hoffman, from Diamond Bar, and, Phil Grove, from La Puente, have entered the $100,000 Mint 400 Desert Race, March 16-19th in Las Vegas, Nevada. The prestigious event, sponsored by Del Webb's Mint Hotel and Casino in Las Vegas, is run in the tough Nevada desert over a 400 mile course. It features the biggest guaranteed purse in off-road racing ($100,000) which is comparable with any purse for any motor rcing eventin the world.

1974 Indianapolis 500 winner, Johnny Rutherford, has entered as well as speed king, Mickey Thompson; world land speed record holder, Gary Gabelich; and 1963 Indy 500 winner, and defending Mint 400 champion, Parnelli Jones. Off-road super star, Bobby Ferro, will try for his first Mint 400 victory — the only major off-road event he hasn't conquered.

Former world motorcycle champion, Rolf Tibblin, will defend his Mint 400 title against the charges of Las Vegan, Jack Johnson; Preston Petty, from Eugene, Oregon; and A. C. Bakken, Santa Fe Vista, California.

Mint 400 Race Director, K. J. Howe, predicts an exceptionally large field for the event. More than four hundred racing drivers from throughout the United States, have entered the gruelling 400 mile desert classic, with entries from Germany, Argentina, Japan, Australia, and neighboring Canada rounding out the international field.

Fergie signs with Rangers

DALLAS (UPI) — Ferguson Jenkins Tuesday signed a $175,000 contract to play for the Texas Rangers in 1975, becoming the highest paid pitcher in the history of baseball, team officials said.

Jenkins, a 25-game winner for the Rangers in the 1974 season, will sign the one-year pact Thursday. Jenkins reportedly had been seeking $200,000 a year.

"We stuck with our offer," said Rangers principal partner Brad Corbett," but he's still the highest paid."

Larry Sazant of Montreal, one of Jenkins' attorneys, said the package was close to $200,000. Sazant said the Rangers' offer, in addition to $175,000, include use of a car and a rent free townhouse. He said the deal also calls for tax arrangements, deferrals and other benefits.

National Open Champion on Yamaha motocross team

BUENA PARK — A formidable three-man team headed by National Open champion Jim Weinert will represent Yamaha in U.S. motocross motorcycling competition during 1975.

Joining Weinert, a native of Middleton, N.Y., who captured the American Motorcycle Association's National Series last season, will be a pair of Californians — team veteran Tim Hart, Torrance, and young Bruce McDougal, Orange.

First major appearance by the trio will be made Feb. 28 and March 1 at Texas Stadium, Irvong, Tex., in the opening segment of the $70,000 Yamaha Invitational Super Series of Motocross.

Other stops on that tour take the team to Daytona (Fla.) International Speedway March 8 and to the Houston (Tex.) Astrodome March 14 and 15.

Weinert, 23, who now lives in Laguna Beach, Calif., returns to Yamaha after an absence of two years. He put together four victories in a row last season to clinch AMA National Motocross Series honors, supplanting former Yamaha team member Pierre Karsmakers as champion.

Hart, now 25 and priming for his third straight season in the familiar yellow and black colors, was plagued by injury through much of 1974 but scored a major Inter-AMA win in 125cc competition at Lexington, Ohio, and won the division's World Championship Grand Prix in Springville, N.Y.

McDougal, 21, was runnerup in AMA National 125cc Series activity last summer, thanks to a record of consistently high finishes. This marks his first season with Yamaha.

Weinert again this year will perform chiefly in the Open division, where he has been a winning performer since 1972, his first season with the Yamaha team. He also will ride selected 250cc events, principally in the Inter-AMA summer series which pits the best of European and American riders in U.S. competition.

MSAC, Chaffey win in baseball

Mt. San Antonio Collge nabbed its third win in a row Tuesday afternoon and Chaffey back from its first defeat in junior college baseball action.

The Mounties pounded Citrus, 10-1, and got plenty of help from five errors, four coming in the six-run seventh inning.

MSAC is in action today at 2:30, hosting L.A. City College in a game postponed from last Tuesday. MSAC will be after its fourth win in six games.

Chaffey won its seventh game in nine contests with a 9-3 decision over San Jacinto. Four errors by the host team helped. Mustad battled MSAC's Jim Vallone nearly even. Both hurlers struck out seven. Vallone walked only four, however, and Mustad walked seven.

Harvey Fierro led the offensive for the Mounties with a triple and a single in four plate appearances and outfielder Gary Adair singled three times in five trips. Phil Sansom hit a solo homer in the eighth inning for Citrus' only run.

Greg Baughman claimed his second pitching victory on the season with a five-hit, 10 strike outs, one walk performance against San Jacinto. He was backed up by errorless play in the field.

The offense literally stole the show—six out of seven thefts on the base paths. Steve Young stole three bases.

Caruthers to race again

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Jimmy Caruthers, 30, Anaheim, Calif., undergoing cobalt treatments for a malignant tumor in his chest since Jan. 4, said Tuesday night that he would return to auto racing Sunday at San Jose.

Caruthers, fifth in the U.S. Auto Club Championship car national point standings in 1974 with a second-place finish in the Pocono 500 and a fourth-place finish in the California 500, will enter a car in a USAC 100-lap midget race at the quarter-mile San Jose Speedway.

Azusa beats Chapman

ORANGE — Azusa Pacific's baseball team parlayed tight relief pitching by Jim Donker and heavy hitting by Brad Kramer into a 3-2 win over Chapman College Tuesday.

Donker came in in the sixth inning and hurled three and a third innings of shutout baseball.

Kramer, a transfer from Chaffey College, had two doubles including one that accounted for the winning run. In the APC ninth, Mark Rogers tripled and Kramer banged his second double to win the game.

APC, 2-1, hosts Pacific Christian Thursday.

Lineup shift is beneficial for Cougars

Hamlow was uncertain as to how strong a part in APC's turnabout last week the benching of three regulars played. The Cougars had dropped 11 of 13 games prior to that.

"I'd like to know the answer so I could write a book on that," answered Hamlow. "All three of them came off the bench in those games and played very well. They really responded. Brian Cox started and may not have scored. But he settled the team down."

One of the three benched, Ken Lukhard, scored 70 points, shot 58 per cent from the floor and grabbed 20 rebounds in the three games.

Quoting the coaches:

LES NAGLER, Pomona-Pitzer: "Brandon Boyd, a 6-2½ forward, is our assist leader for the season. That's unusual for a forward. He's very quick and very unselfish. He's been overshadowed by Geoff Northrup. But Northrup has been scoring a lot of his points because Boyd has been feeding him the ball.

"We beat Claremont-Mudd and Caltech last week. In our two games with the Stags including overtime, there were 147 points scored by each team in 85 minutes of play with each team winning one game. If we played them again, it would probably be that close."

DAVE WELLS, Claremont-Mudd: "Against Pomona, guard Johnny Daniels played a half as good as I've ever seen a guard play. He was 8-for-9, had four assists and should have had three or four more.

"We're not overconfident against Caltech Wednesday night's (tonight) opponent. I remember when I was playing on a very good C-M team and we went into a game there needing the win to clinch a playoff berth and they beat us."

GENE VICTOR, MSAC: "I've been coaching for 25 years and have seen a lot of players. But George Schader could be the most complete player of them all. He plays good defense, comes off the ball like no one, moves well without the ball and is a good shooter.

"We're in a position in the conference race now where we're master of our own destiny. We simply have to win our remaining conference games."

NEIL EDWARDS, Citrus: "We hope to have Roland Albright for about 25-27 minutes per game this week. He has a bad ankle but scored nine points and grabbed 10 rebounds against Grossmont Saturday night."

Berry, Goring get 20th goal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bob Berry and Butch Goring each scored his 20th goal Tuesday night to lead the Kings to a 6-1 win here over the expansion Washington Capitals.

The win extended the Kings' unbeaten string to four games and gave the L.A. club 78 points in 57 games to tie a club season record.

Los Angeles picked up a point on Montreal, who was held to a 4-4 tie by St. Louis, in the Division III standings. L.A. now trails the Canadiens by six points entering tonight's game in Pittsburgh.

'Hens travel to Redlands

eraging an even 21 points per game.

Nagler got 14 points out of the troublesome "other" forward position against Caltech. Bill Harris scored eight points and Bob Hoehn six. However Nagler will not make up his mind who will start tonight since Manuel Ramos has recovered from the flu.

"I'll start the one that looks the best and give the other two some playing time and the one that looks best will play the most," said Nagler. I think we've settled on using three guys at that position."

Angels look forward to 1975 season

Defense is the other big item.

Williams intends to take care of that when the Angels begin their spring training at Holtville. Fundamentals will be the main concern.

"I'm very strong on fundamentals," Williams said. "I grew up in the Brooklyn Dodgers' system and learned the Branch Rickey way of playing baseball."

The Angels players present are looking forward to their first full season under Williams' leadership.

Lahoud, who had also played for Williams in Boston, said, "I started out with Dick in Boston and I'm with him here. I just wish I was also with him when he was winning those championships at Oakland."

The outfielder also took a little dig at Williams in saying, "I'm glad to get a chance to represent the Angels here today because I didn't get that much of a chance on the field. All of you here today must be righthanders or I wouldn't be here."

Lahoud, a lefthander batter, usually plays only against righthanders.

Singer, a resident of Diamond Bar and a Pomona High graduate, got the biggest hand as he is making a comeback from back surgery last summer.

"I am a little nervous," the righthander pitcher said. "This is the largest crowd I have faced in months. Really, I feel pretty good and ready to pitch."

Singer took time to praise Pomona.

"I grew up in this area and it couldn't have been better for me," Singer said. "I know in one year of high school and Legion ball, I pitched more than 300 innings.

"As one way of repaying this area for what it has done for me, I have been working out with the Cal Poly pitchers. It's been great for me and a thrill to see their progress."

Firstbaseman Bruce Bochte, who hit .352 this winter to win the batting title in the Dominican Republic, talked about the prospects for his second major league season.

"I feel very confident because of our strong pitching and our strong manager," he said. "We have a young, enthusiastic organization."

I'm about $700 overweight," he said. "I was hoping to hit my weight this year but Dick wants me at 215 so that's no good. I've been working on becoming a switch-hitter this winter in Arizona and I appreciate the time and effort the Angels have made in trying to help with my hitting."

Tanana, a 21-year-old lefthander, was selected the American League Rookie Pitcher of the Year last year. He also quickly found out Williams will be the boss after he took over the club last July.

"He stuck me in the bullpen and when I told him I want to be a starter, he said that could be arranged in three days at Salt Lake City," Tanana said. "From that moment on, I knew he would be all business. I hope I can continue this year and I am thankful he gave me the chance last year and stuck with me."

It's breeze for Ramirez in tourney

RANCHO LA COSTA (UPI) — Mexican Davis Cup hero Raul Ramirez breezed past Australian Roy Emerson 6-1, 6-3, Tuesday in an opening round match of the Michelob Pro-Celebrity Tennis Tournament.

Ramirez, the No. 1 seed, showed no effects of a slight case of the flu, which caused the match to be postponed from Monday to Tuesday.

Australian Rod Laver, a loser to Jimmy Connors in a $100,000 match last month, squeezed by Russian Teimuraz Kakulia 7-6, 7-6.

Laver is seeded fifth in the tournament, which is the third stop on the tour for World Championship Tennis' "blue" group.

Make potatoes something more than dinner table accessory

When people get together to enjoy good food, the potato dish often plays an important part in the meal. Potatoes have staying power, fine food value, and when they come from Idaho, they have taste that is a special treat. The volcanic soil, the cold nights and brilliant days, the pure mountain water in Idaho produce potatoes famous round the world for quality and for distinctive dry, mealy yet fluffy texture.

These potatoes have been called the "Tiffany of tubers" and they are great served baked, boiled and mashed, but for special occasions—get-together—family Sunday dinners—luncheon parties—it's interesting to serve these potatoes in festife ways. Potatoes Cordon Bleu makes a special event of the potato course.

The potatoes are cooked, cubed, sauced, and baked in a casserole with delicious accents of cooked ham and Swiss cheese. This cassrole can be prepared ahead, refrigerated, and baked just before dinner. It's a guest special to remember.

Convenient instand mashed potatoes are the base of a Florentine Potato Puff that is elegant yet easy to do. The texture is smooth and light, the flavor a surprise in combination with potato. Spinach, creamed cottage cheese, and Parmesan, all figure in this unusual and appealing potato dish. It is well known that Idaho potatoes make the very finest processed potatoes. That's why knowing shoppers look for the silhouette map of Idaho on the package.

You'll never be at a loss for potato excitement at festive meals, once you have tried these two great casserole specialties.

POTATOES CORDON BLEU

4 Idaho potatoes
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
½ cup shredded Swiss cheese
1 cup diced cooked ham
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon nutmeg
⅛ teaspoon pepepr
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

Place potatoes in saucepan; add salted water to cover. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer 20 minutes or until poatoes are tender when pierced with a fork. Drain and cool. Peel and cut into 1-inch cubes. In medium saucepan melt butter. Blend in flour, stir in milk. Cook over medium heat, stirring constantly, until sauce thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat; stir in cheeese and remaining ingredients. Gently stir in potatoes. Turn into a greased 1½-quart casserole or baking dish. Bake in 350 degrees oven 15 minutes or until heated. If casserole is prepared ahead and refrigerated, bake for 30 to 45 minutes. YIELD: 6 servbings.

POTATOES CORDON BLEU

Meatballs, limpa, cheese cake

A Swedish accented buffet

Looking for some yummy buffet foods for your next get together? Here you are! Serve a dinner with a Swedish accent, starring Swedish meatballs, Swedish limpa, and creamy cheesecake.

For these truly authentic Swedish meatballs use three parts ground beef to one part each of ground veal and ground pork. They will be proclaimed "delicious!" The loaf of Swedish limpa you have baked yourself is a great co-star. You'll see some food disappear mighty fast!

SWEDISH MEATBALLS

1 pound ground veal
1 pound ground fresh pork
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup finely minced onion
1 cup soft bread crumbs (about 3 slices white bread, crumbled)
2 eggs
¼ cup shortening

Have butcher grind three meats together and grind twice. In a large pan or bowl, combine meat with salt, cloves, onion, bread crumbs and eggs. Mix together thoroughly until well blended. Form tiny 1-inch meatballs with hands or teaspoon. Heat shortening in a large skillet; add meatballs but do not overcrowd pan. As meatballs cook, shake pan vigorously from time to time to keep meatballs round and brown well on all sides. Repeat, draining excess fat if necessary, until all meatballs are cooked. Keep meatballs hot in a moderate oven and transfer to chafing dish for serving. Yield: Serves 12 generously.

SWEDISH LIMPA

1 package active dry or compressed yeast
1 cup warm water
1 cup lukewarm beer
¼ cup welted shortening
¼ cup firmly packed dark brown sugar
1 tablespoon molasses
2 teaspoons grated orange peel
2¼ cups rye flour
1 tablespoon salt
3½ cups sifted all-purpose flour

Dissolve yeast in warm water and stir to blend. Add beer, shortening, brown sugar, molasses and orange peel. Beat in rye flour and salt. Stir in enough all-purpose flour to make a stiff dough. Knead dough on a lightly floured board until smooth and elastic. Cover dough with a towel and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about 1 hour. Roll dough into a 12x18 inch rectangle on a floured board. Starting at one of the long sides, roll the dough tightly as for a jelly roll. Place on a greased baking sheet. With a sharp knife, cut diagonal slashes at 2½ inch intervals. Cover with towels and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk, about 35 to 40 minutes. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 deg.) about 50 minutes or until loaf sounds hollow when thumped. Yield: 1 long loaf.

CREAMY CHEESE CAKE

1½ cups graham cracker crumbs
¼ cup sugar
¼ cup soft butter or margarine
1½ pounds cream cheese
6 egg yolks
1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
6 egg whites

Mix graham cracker crumbs, sugar and butter until crumbly. Press mixture onto the bottom and sides of a well greased 8-inch spring form pan. Let cream cheese soften at room temperature; stir until soft and creamy. Add egg yolks, ½ cup of the sugar and vanilla. Beat until well blended and smooth. Beat egg whites until stiff; gradually beat in remaining sugar. Gently fold egg whites into cheese mixture. Pour mixture into crumb-lined pan. Bake in a preheated slow oven (325 degrees) for 45 to 50 minutes. When done, turn off oven, open door and leave cake in oven for 30 minutes more. Remove from oven and cool thoroughly before removing sides. (A piece of aluminum foil cut one inch larger than cake pan and placed under pan in oven often helps the cheese cake bake more evenly.) If desired, garnish top of cheese cake with whipped cream or fruit. Yield: 8-inch cake.

Purists don't like them

Like additives, all nutrients are chemicals

Remember the good old days without food additives. Those were the days when food molded quickly, ice cream was grainy, cottage cheese separated, cookies dried out in two days, canned vegetables and fruits were soft and mushy and marshmallows got too hard to toast.

The California Dietetic Association, San Gabriel Valley District, reminds people they can get along without food additives, but not as well.

Professional dietitians explain that food additives are chemicals added to food for extra nutritive value, preserving, emulsifying, stabilizing, thickening, coloring, flavoring and bleaching. According to the dietitians some natural food advocates scare many consumers by implying food additives are poisonous because they are chemicals. But, if all chemicals are poisonous then people would have to stop eating entirely, because all foods are nothing more than chemicals.

The Federal Food and Drug Administration (FDA) keeps an eye on what is put into our food supply.

Any additive not considered safe by pharmacological and toxicological experts can not be put into food. If a food company wants to add something new, it must prove through extensive testing that it will not hurt anyone who eats it.

The FDA will allow a food manufacturer to add something to food only if it has a positive benefit. And if the additive is proved safe, only the smallest amount needed to accomplish the desired effect is allowed to be added.

The CDA acknowledges the need for strict supervision over what goes into our foods and it encourages surveillance by consumers, scientists and government. But it cautions that food additives aren't bad just because they're chemicals.

Basic four food groups

Vegetarians, meat lovers can balance meal the same

The basic four food groups are the same for both vegetarians and their meat-eating neighbors. And according to the California Dietetic Association, San Gabriel Valley District, both groups should use the same method for balancing diets.

However, warn the dietitians, vegetarians would be wise to consult a dietitian to be sure their families are being adequately nourished.

There are many different types of vegetarians but their diets generally fall into three main categories: lacto-ovo vegetarian, lacto vegetarian and the strict or pure vegetarian.

The lacto-ovo vegetarians do not eat meat but they will eat dairy foods and eggs. The lacto vegetarian also rejects meat but will drink milk and eat dairy foods. The strict vegetarian will not consume any food of animal origin.

Even among the pure vegetarians a nutritionally sound diet is possible but special care has to be taken to get sufficient vitamin B-12, calcium, vitamin D, riboflavin and complete protein.

Dietitians in local hospitals and public health departments can provide vegetarians recipes and suggestions for meal planning and preparation so that a diet contains a variety of foods that are appetizing and nutritious.

Exorcist

The pentagram, a five-pointed geometric figure, called the "Shield of Solomon," was once used to exorcise spirits.

Does 'organic' mean safe?

'Organic'

"Organic" meats and poultry are not safer sources of protein than regularly produced meats, says the California Dietetic Association, San Gabriel Valley District.

When consumers buy "organic" meat, (from animals raised on feed that contains no added hormones, antibiotics or other drugs) they pay much more money with no assurances that it is any healthier than other meat.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has been unable to substantiate claims that such products are safer than regular meat and poultry not produced "organically," the dietitians say.

Vitamin supplements

Vitamins

Most people in the United States need no vitamin supplements, says the California Dietetic Association, San Gabriel Valley District.

The dietitians explain: Consumers shopping in the supermarket who choose a variety of foods from the Four Food Groups will be adequately supplied with their nutrient requirements.

There is one possible exception. Some children under four and many women need extra iron. However, the dietitians say, iron supplementation should be at the suggestion of a doctor.

Athletes need more protein?

Athletes

Athletes need no more protein than the average person, says the California Dietetic Association, San Gabriel Valley District.

There is no scientific support for the belief that athletics and hard exercise increases the body's need for protein, according to the dietitians.

There is, however, an increased need for carbohydrates and calories, the dietitians say.

White flour fallacy?

Flour

It's a fallacy that white bread and white flour have no nutritional value, says the California Dietetic Association, San Gabriel Valley District.

White bread is white because the bran and germ (which contains many nutrients) have been removed in milling. Normally after milling the flour in bread is enriched with thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and iron, the dietitians explain.

However, not all nutrients are returned to the milled flour. But these can be obtained in adequate amounts from a well balanced, varied diet, says the dietitians.

Chicken-on-a-biscuit: homespun goodness

Hankerin' for some good old fashioned home-style cooking? Try homespun Country Chicken-on-a-Biscuit. Ever since Herbert Hoover promised to "put a chicken in every pot", this homely bird has symbolized good old-time prosperity and simple, but delicious family fare like Grandma used to make.

Today's smart cooks choose chicken . . . knowing there is no better buy at the meat counter. Economical, versatile chicken takes to a pot in this yummy recipe. Bright colored mixed vegetables, which come frozen in butter sauce, are a cheerful addition to this dish, boosting its eye appeal, flavor and nutritive goodness. Turmeric makes the gravy a rich, yellow color. Spoon the chicken over hot baking powder biscuits for a hearty country-style meal.

A medley of fresh fruit is a perfect plate mate. And, while your oven is on, pop in a gingerbread, to serve warm for dessert with homemade applesauce. Mugs of frosty cool milk complete the down-on-the-farm menu.

COUNTRY CHICKEN-ON-A-BISCUIT

- 1 2½ to 3½-pound chicken
- 4 cups chicken broth
- 2 10-oz. packages mixed vegetables frozen in butter sauce
- ⅓ cup flour
- 1 cup chicken broth
- 3 teaspoons (3 cubes) instant chicken bouillon
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon marjoram, crushed
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- ¼ teaspoon onion salt
- ¼ teaspoon celery salt
- Several dashes turmeric

Place chicken in large saucepan with enough water to cover. Season with salt and pepper. Bring to a boil; reduce heat, cover and simmer 1½ to 2 hours or until tender. Remove chicken from pan, reserving broth; cool, skin and dice. Pour 4 cups chicken broth into large saucepan. Remove frozen vegetables from pouches and place in broth; heat until thawed. Combine flour with 1 cup chicken broth until smooth. Add to broth-vegetable mixture. Heat, stirring constantly, until thickened and smooth. Add bouillon, salt, marjoram, pepper, onion salt and celery salt. Stir in several dashes turmeric for desired color. Stir in cut-up chicken. Heat through. Serve over hot baking powder biscuits. Makes eight 1-cup servings.

Healthy inflation fighter

Heart Assn. pamphlet for ticker and budget

To help the homemaker fight today's increasing prices, and prepare economical, nutritious family meals, the American Heart Association has recently produced a pamphlet which is now available to county residents.

"Save Food $ and Help Your Heart", a guide to budget-wise shopping for good health, includes general information, advice on proper food selection, preparation and storage, and label reading.

According to the Heart Association, the largest portion of an average food budget is spent on foods that are high in saturated fat and cholesterol. (Meat, eggs, whole milk, cheese and butter). Shoppers who select lean meats, fish and poultry, low fat diary products, and polyunsaturated margarines will save money and help their heart and blood vessels.

Lower grades of beef, for example, are a better food buy because they contain less fat, so the homemaker gets more protein for her money.

The pamphlet contains the admonition that there are no miracle foods and advises being wary of "health foods", "organically" grown products, and unnecessary additions of vitamin and mineral diet supplements. They are expensive and are not necessary if a diet is properly planned.

Similarly, convenience and snack foods contain large amounts of saturated fats and sugars as well as salt, and cost too much for the return in nutrition.

The Heart Association suggests that their new publication can help families eat better than they ever have, and for less.

Free copies are available at the American Heart Association, Greater Los Angeles Affiliate, 2405 W. 8th St., L.A., 90057 and at the following Heart Association field offices: 4741 Laurel Canyon Boulevard, Studio City, 91604; 6820 La Tijera Boulevard, Los Angeles, 90045; 12300 East Washington Boulevard, Suite R, Whittier, 90606.

'Planned overs' menus

Leftovers—or "planned overs" as many homemakers prefer to call them—are a boon to the creative cook. They can be as good or better the second time around than they were at the first serving. For instance, leftover cooked chicken and ham combine with mushrooms to make delicately flavored Chicken and Ham a la King, a luxurious dish for a brunch or luncheon.

CHICKEN AND HAM A LA KING
(6 Servings)

- ¼ cup (½ stick) butter
- 1-3rd cup flour
- 1¾ cups milk
- ½ cup chicken broth
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- ½ teaspoon salt
- Dash each: pepper and mace
- 1¼ cups diced cooked chicken
- 1 cup diced cooked ham
- 1 jar (4½ ounces) sliced mushrooms, drained
- 2 tablespoons chopped parsley
- Pik-Nik or Kobey's Shoestring Potatoes

Melt butter in a large frying pan; stir in flour. Gradually add milk and broth; cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add mustard and seasonings. Stir in chicken, ham, and mushrooms. Heat thoroughly; stir in parsley. Serve over heated shoestring potatoes.

CRISPY CHEESE BISCUITS
(10 biscuits)

- 2 tablespoons butter
- 1 jar (5 ounces) pimiento-olive cheese spread
- 1 package (8 ounces) refrigerated baking powder biscuits
- ½ cup coarsely crushed Pik-Nik or Kobey's Shoestring Potatoes

Melt butter in saucepan; stir in cheese spread, mixing until well blended. Place biscuits in greased 8-inch round cake pan. Spread cheese spread over top of biscuits; sprinkle with shoestring potatoes. Bake at 450 degree for 10 to 12 minutes.

RED BEAN MINESTRONE

A high protein dish within your budget

Everyone is still looking for a high protein dish that doesn't burst the budget. For centuries, civilizations throughout the world turned to dried beans as versatile recipe ingredients. These rate high nutritionally as excellent sources of iron, calcium, the important B vitamins and protein. Besides, they taste good. A large proportion of our dried beans, such as the Great Northern, pinto, pink and red beans come from the rich soil of Idaho . . . a long way from Italy which provides one of the great soups of the world — bean minestrone.

Combine red beans, pasta and fresh vegetables with a rich meat stock for a winter treat. Serve with Italian garlic bread and fruit for dessert as a main meal or serve Bean Minestrone as a first course for those with hearty appetites.

BEAN MINESTRONE

- 1½ cups Idaho dry red beans
- 5 cups water
- 3 (10½ ounces) can condensed beef broth
- 3 cups water
- 2 cloves minced garlic
- 1 cup chopped onion
- ¾ cup chopped carrot
- ¾ cup chopped celery
- 3 tablespoons olive oil
- 1 (29 ounces) can tomatoes
- ½ cup broken spaghetti
- 1 zucchini, diced
- 1 cup shredded cabbage
- 1 cup sliced fresh or frozen green beans
- 1 teaspoon sweet basil
- ½ teaspoon oregano
- Salt and pepper to taste
- grated Parmesan cheese

In a large kettle combine beans with 5 cups water and let soak overnight. Or for quick soak, bring beans and water to a boil. Boil 2 minutes, then remove from heat and let stand, covered, 1 hour. Add beef broth and 3 cups water and simmer beans 1½ hours or until tender. Remove half the beans and puree them in a blender or rub through a wire strainer. Return to kettle. Saute garlic, onion, carrot and celery in olive oil. Add sauteed vegetables and tomatoes to beans. Simmer 30 minutes. Add spaghetti, zucchini, cabbage, green beans and seasonings. Simmer 10 minutes or just until vegetables are tender. Serve with grated Parmesan cheese. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

Main course

Try beef-lentil soup

Whether served in a glistening copper pot, a porcelain tureen or a cast iron kettle, a meaty soup can make a terrific meal. For when beef and a bevy of vegetables are incorporated in a soup, it can provide enough sustenance to serve as the main course of a family dinner.

Beef Lentil Soup, with a flair of French appeal, illustrates just how grand a soup can be. Although only simple ingredients are used, skillful preparation, slow simmering and discriminating seasoning give it a fourmet air.

The soup brings all the important nutritive contributions of beef to the table in an economical, appetizing and satisfying manner. Packaged beef for stew supplies heartiness discretely when the cubes are cut into spoon-size pieces. This shortens the cooking time as well as making for easier eating. Dredging and browning the beef prior to simmering makes for a robust stock.

Lentils lend a fine French accent. These tiny legumes are prepared in various ways from hors d'oeuvres to salads in France, but most generally, they are used in soups. Carrot circles, celery slices and chopped onion contribute their food value to this savory soup while lemon juice and thyme accent flavors to perfection.

With a hearty beef soup such as this, little else is necessary to provide a fine dinner. Canned pear halves or sliced fresh pears on nests of lettuce offer contrast and hot buttered French bread will go well. For dessert, take another tip from a French cookbook and serve chocolate mousse.

BEEF LENTIL SOUP

2 pounds beef for stew
3 tablespoons flour
2 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
3 tablespoons lard or drippings
3 cups water
2 cups sliced celery
3 medium carrots cut crosswise in thin slices
2 large onions, chopped
1 cup lentils
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon thyme

Cut beef cubes across the grain in pieces ½ inch thick. Combine flour, 2 teaspoons salt and pepper; dredge meat. Brown meat in lard or drippings in Dutch oven or large pot. Add water, cover tightly and simmer 45 minutes. Stir in celery, carrots, onions, lentils, lemon juice, 1½ teaspoons salt and the thyme. Simmer, covered, 1 hour, stirring occasionally. 8 servings (1½ cups each).

California chili

Add almonds for extra zestiness

Some people eat chili the year round no matter what the outdoor temperature is. A basic chili which comes close to the Mexican chili con carne has an extra touch — a dash of sliced or slivered almonds.

FAVORITE CALIFORNIA CHILI

1 pound ground lean beef chuck
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon chili powder
½ teaspoon powdered cumin
½ teaspoon oregano
2 (15 ounce) cans red kidney beans
1 1 (8 ounce) can tomato sauce
1 (1-pound) can stewed tomatoes
Sliced green onions
Sliced or slivered almonds

Brown beef until crumbly. Stir in salt, chili powder, cumin and oregano. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer about 10 minutes. Serve in bowls topped with onions and almonds. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

ICEBERG GRANOLA SALAD

Salad experience for jaded tastes

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

The variety of tastes and the mixing of textures can turn a creative salad into a luncheon or dinner experience. One such "experience" comes with ingredients that score high on the nutrition scale — lettuce, artichoke hearts, kidney beans and onions. A "Salad Cinque Terra" makes an excellent first course for a spaghetti dinner, for example, and can also be enjoyed as a one-course meal to refresh jaded palates.

SALAD CINQUE TERRA

1 head western iceberg lettuce
1 jar (6 ounces) marinated artichoke hearts
1 can (1 pound) red kidney beans, drained
½ cup sliced red or yellow onion (1 medium)
1-2rd cup white vinegar
¾ teaspoon salt
½ cup finely chopped Italian dry salami
½ teaspoon sweet basil, crumbled or 2 teaspoons chopped fresh basil
¼ teaspoon caraway seeds (crushed)
¼ teaspoon pepper

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce. Chill until crackling crisp in disposable plastic bag or plastic crisper and shake to blend; pour over kidney beans and onion in bowl. For the dressing, add corn oil, vinegar, salt, salami, basil, caraway seed and pepper to the artichoke marinade. Close jar vegetable combination, toss and chill. When almost ready to serve, gently remove 6 cup-like lettuce leaves; finely chop enough of remaining lettuce to measure 2 cups and divide this into lettuce cups. Place on individual plates or serving platter and spoon vegetable mixture and dressing into cups. Garnish with pimiento strips if you like. Makes 6 servings.

ICEBERG GRANOLA SALAD

1 large head western iceberg lettuce
½ cup shredded carrot
½ cup sliced celery
3 tablespoons chopped green pepper
Honey Herb Dressing
1½ cups granola

Core, rinse and thoroughly drain lettuce. Refrigerate in disposable plastic bag or plastic crisper. Prepare carrot, celery and green pepper; chill. Mix dressing. When ready to serve, cut lettuce into bitesize chunks to measure 6 cups and turn into chilled salad bowl with carrot, celery and green pepper. Top with granola. Toss with dressing serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

Honey Herb Dressing: Measure ½ cup corn oil, 1 tbsp. cup lemon juice, 1½ tablespoons honey, 1 tablespoon onion salt, ½ teaspoons grated orange peel, ½ teaspoon each spearmint flakes and marjoram (crumbled) and ¼ teaspoon pepper in a small jar. Cover and shake well. Shake again just before using. Makes about 1 cup.

You can do small baking jobs in your electric frying pan. Put a small rack in pans that have high lids and use it instead of the oven for baking meat loaf, potatoes or anything else that will fit into the pan. For most items, 250 degrees is adequate, but it must be hotter for potatoes.

It is even possible to bake banana bread this way at 350 degrees. Don't expect the top to brown, although the sides and bottom will. —A. G., Silverdale, Wash.

To cut down use of dryer, buy several sturdy over-the-door hangers and install them in inconspicuous places. As soon as clothes are taken from the washer, hang everything possible on these hangers. Clothes will dry quickly and can soon be put away.

This not only cuts down on use of dryer but adds mosture to overly dry rooms and saves on ironing, too. — E. W. Munising, Mich.

Try to cut down on use of ventilating fans in cold weather. One way is to eliminate activities that produce odors — try to smoke less and avoid cooking odorous foods, thereby eliminating the necessity to ventilate the house.

Don't use the fan to get rid of steam resulting from the shower in winter. Let the excess moisture dissipate slowly throughout the house. — I. G., Munsie, Ind.

Open the refrigerator or freezer door as seldom as possible. Make a pile of items you want to freeze on a counter near the door, and then just open it once. The greatest heat loss occures in the first few seconds that the door is open.

When removing items, a little concentration will help you remember what is wans you want after you open the door. If you work at it, perhaps you can remember several items at once. — G. S., Tonawanda, N.Y.

Get to really know the routes you drive daily. Find a route that has minimal congestion, and then learn the timing on the traffic lights so that you don't have to waste gasoline starting and stopping. — R. H., Cleveland, Ohio.

KINDERGARTENER — Nicole Peltz, 3, ponders next move on her calculator at a New York school.

1 in 10 now owns one

Calculators entering kindergarten classes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The mini-calculator has gained in popularity to the point where it is estimated one in 10 persons own one.

Now, a New York nursery school is using mini-calculators in a class of three, four and five-year-olds in an early-learning program.

Sara Seiden, director of The Green Corn Nursery School, says it has "been great fun for the children as well as a good learning experience."

Youngsters this age learn quickly when they can simply punch a number and see it pop up on the calculator screen, Ms. Seiden said. "The children use the calculator along with blocks, counting beads and other learning tools."

Ms. Seiden does not think the children will develop a reliance on the calculator or that its use will keep the children from learning basic math concepts.

"You've got to remember that these youngsters cannot write or understand abstract math concepts," she said. "Being able to punch a number and see it instantly relieves a level of frustration for them."

Henry Mullish, senior research scientist at New York University's Courant Institute of Mathematical Sciences, who has encouraged use of calculators by his math students, has visited the nursery school as an observer and says the calculator "encourages the youngsters to make a connection between physical and representational aspects of mathematics. That is, four blocks become dramatically illustrated when the children punch the four and see it instantly on the green display terminal."

Ms. Seiden said the calculators are accepted matter of factly by the children as just another "toy." Few of the children questioned had access to calculators at home.

Enthusiasm for use of the calculators among the very young is not unanimous, however. Mrs. Carl Hirsch, a middle-school math teacher at one of Manhattan's prestigious private schools, thinks the seventh grade is the earliest children can handle them to advantage.

"Of course you take a highly motivated young child and you can use any method of teaching," Mrs. Hirsch said. "The child is going to learn no matter what you do. But the average child, the majority, is going to take the easy way if it is offered. Every one of my seventh grade students got a calculator for Christmas, and I'm all for it — at that age. But any younger, I have definite reservations."

They bring in 75% of wells

Energy crunch threatens independent oil producers

TULSA (UPI) — A cluttered jumble of rolled maps, stacks of reports and assorted other papers obscure the desk and overflow onto the bare floor. On the wall hang pictures of old oil fields, now-deserted boom towns and a figurehead from an old sailing vessel.

The office of independent oilman David Blue Jr. is far from plush —just a simple headquarters for his family-owned production company. His chief task is to try to balance rapidly escalating costs against an uncertain price for the oil his wells bring in —if they bring in any oil at all.

The Toomey Oil Co., still bearing the name of its founder, is as far removed from the majors like Exxon and Phillips as the family-owned grocery is from the national supermarket chain.

Blue's problems are symbolic of most independent producers.

The average independent, he says, is a man in his 50s who worked for a major company for awhile after graduating from college and is now making somewhere between $25,000 and $40,000 a year operating stripper wells in fields long abandoned by the majors or in areas nearby which only the independent could afford to explore.

"Everything connected with this business has escalated," Blue says, "compounded by a scarcity of materials. There isn't any great big bonanza."

The independents have brought in more than 75 per cent of all domestic oil wells and continue to do nearly 80 per cent of all domestic exploration and production. Some fear they will be forced out of business by congressional actions aimed at high profits reported recently by the majors.

"If they make these things (price rollbacks and increased taxes) retroactive, then you'll see a bunch of people out of the business who placed their funds back into exploration and production," Blue says. "If you can't produce these properties at a profit, you'll either have to shut them down or plug them.

"The only alternative is government operation, and based on their track record, I can think of nothing more wasteful that letting the federal government run the domestic oil industry."

Blue's company operates about 75 producing oil wells, which bring in less than 500 barrels a day in total production. That could be doubled if the materials were available and the future price of oil certain, he says, but the uncertainties now plaguing the independent have made most hold off on any new efforts.

"We're not quite like anything else —we're neither fish nor fowl. We can't figure costs and returns like a retail merchant. You have to play it pretty much by ear.

"It used to cost $10 a foot to drill a well. Today it's twice that."

If congressmen from non-oil producing states see depletion allowances on items like sand, gravel, coal, timber and more than 150 others disappear, Blue predicts "they'll start hearing from their constituents.

"Our product is not replaceable. It's not like timber. When oil is gone, it's gone."

WHEE! — Even this pup got into the act on his master's snow saucer when nine inches of the white stuff hit Wichita, Kans., this week. Roads and schools were closed until crews could clear streets.

Ex-Vietnam POWs and families have readjusted okay

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — A two-year study indicates Vietnam prisoners of war and their families, in most cases, have readily readjusted to their long separations.

"Remember, these are the ones who survived," said Dr. J. William Berg of the Center for Prisoner of War Studies.

The 591 American prisoners of war returned two years ago have been undergoing various phases of study along with their families.

Resiliency was the overriding thing the 35 investigators found in virtually all aspects of their investigations, said center director Dr. John A. Plag.

"It's one bit of information we've gained from this whole experience," he said. "It would be to characterize the returned POWs and their families as being an extremely resilient and adaptive group of people who have fared well without the stresses imposed upon them.

On the negative side, 30.5 per cent have been divorced, 5 of them have problems adjusting to the stress of new situations and six have serious problems.

"Three still have family members in degrees of psychopathology (mental disorders), one of whom has been in the hospital since homecoming," Berg said.

It would appear they are no worse off than the national average. The divorce rate is even lower than the average.

"We don't consider this striking or unusual," Plag said. "To compare the divorce rate with the rest of the United States, you would be missing the boat because they are highly trained and talented individuals."

Army Capt. Hamilton I. McCubbin, in charge of the family section of the center, noted one of the major problems has been the significant change in the female's role in the society during the approximately five years the men were imprisoned.

He said that when the studies began two years ago most of the females said they were willing to give up their responsibilities and let their husbands assume the role of head of the household.

But it was harder than they imagined," he said. "They have established new identities legitimatized by women's lib. For the first six months after their return, it was a whole new ball game for the families to determine who did what. The divorce rate probably reflects how some of the families decided to work it out."

The center plans two new studies which might give meaning to what they have found.

Of the 591 returnees, 138 were naval aviators. Plag and his staff have selected 138 other naval aviators with comparable backgrounds and will study them to determine how they compare.

"That is not as difficult as it might sound," Plag said. "Since this is a fairly homogeneous group of men. Men who fly in the Navy tend to jump through the same hoops."

The center also hopes to study the crewmen from the intelligence ship Pueblo. They were captured by the North Koreans in 1968 and held for 11 months. The study would determine how they have fared over a longer period of time.

Say neither party represents them

First fledgling step toward conservative third party

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Conservatives, feeling left out by both Republicans and Democrats, have taken "the first step" toward creation of their own political party for 1976.

The Conservative Political Action Conference voted overwhelmingly for a 13-member "committee on conservative alternatives" to "review and assess the current political situation and to develop future opportunities."

The committee, including three Republican members of Congress and several GOP officials, was empowered to call another meeting if necessary "to chart more explicitly the future course of conservativism."

The only opposition this week's brief debate on the resolution by more than 200 delegates who stayed to the end of the four-day meeting, was a concern that conservative Democrats and representatives of such parties as the American and Libertarian were being ignored.

But M. Stanton Evans, chairman of the American Conservative Union and editor of the Indianapolis News, assured delegates no one was going to be frozen out.

"This leaves the third party option open," Evans said. "We have to take the first step."

Sources said Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., is expected to head the committee. The other GOP congressman on the group are Reps. Robert Bauman of Maryland and John Ashbrook of Ohio, who headed a brief conservative challenge to Richard Nixon in 1972.

The resolution said "conservatives have been forced into a political position which leaves us without a serious leadership role in either major political party, and the question of our allegiance to these political parties is a matter of increasing doubt to conservatives.

"The present national leadership of the Republican Party has not effectively articulated or represented the conservative sentiment of the vast majority of Republicans and millions of Democrats are alienated by the increasingly radical orientation of the Democratic party."

The conference debated a number other resolutions on domestic issues ranging from foreign policy to "big government." The resolutions included recommending an anti-abortion amendment to the Constitution, a ban on welfare assistance "to able bodied and childless couples between the ages of 18 and 65," acceleration of the B1 bomber and the Trident submarine and missile programs, and an end to "forced busing of students to achieve racial balance."

This is peace?

A dozen shooting wars on

By United Press International

The world's major powers are technically at peace. But at least a dozen shooting wars, large and small, are in progress around the globe — including some that have been going on since the 1940s.

The battlefields are scattered across Europe, Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East, and the death toll is in the millions.

The number of soldiers killed in the Indochina war alone has reached about 2 million.

Here is a thumbnail sketch of wars in progress around the world:

INDOCHINA — The world's costliest, bloodiest and longest battlefield war continues in Vietnam and Cambodia with no end in sight. An estimated 2 million Vietnamese and Cambodians have died since the start of the Indochina war Dec. 19, 1946. More than 100,000 foreigners, including 45,000 Ammericans, also have been killed. The United States alone spends nearly $200,000 an hour in military and economic aid.

ISRAEL — Arab guerrilas have been making occasional forays over Israel's northern border, and Israel has responded with commando attacks on suspected Palestinian strongholds in Lebanon. There has been an uneasy truce between the regular armies of Israel and its neighbors since the October, 1973, Middle East war. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger is now on a trip to the region to try to arrange a troop withdrawal agreement.

NORTHERN IRELAND — What is perhaps the world's bloodiest urban guerrilla war is in its sixth year with nearly 1,200 persons dead. It rose out of a Roman Catholic civil rights movement in the late 1960s to get equality in jobs and housing with the Protestant majority. The underground Irish Republican Army has declared an indefinite cease-fire, but shootings continue nevertheless.

IRAQ — The rebellious Kurdish tribesmen in Northern Iraq have been at war for half a century, demanding greater autonomy. A four-year peace broke down in March of 1964, and about 20,000 outgunned rebels pulled back into the mountains to hold off Iraq's much more powerful 90,000 man army. The guerrillas are backed by Iran, which has skirmished with Iraq in several border incidents.

ETHIOPIA — Eritrean successionists in Ethiopia's northern province have seized the countryside in a recent upsurge of fighting in their 13-year-old rebellion against the central government. The military government has denounced the rebels as "bandits," but loyalist forces only control major cities and not the countryside, which is in the hands of the Arab-supplied Eritrean Liberation Front.

PHILIPPINES — Moslem rebels in the Mindanao-Sulu region of the southern Philippines have been fighting for independence since the 16th century battles against Spanish colonizers. Warfare has risen in tempo against the government of President Ferdinand Marcos in the last three years, and an estimated 3,000

WHAT'S IN STORE

KERCHOO!

Many in our neighborhood have succumbed to the annual seige of colds and flu. Every morning that I wake up free from symptoms I'm grateful. One wonders why the miracle workers of science have not come up with a remedy. After all, they can get us to the moon!

Some studies have indicated that large doses of Vitamin "C" have been effective in reducing symptoms of the cold. But other medical reports now suggest that these "overdoses" may be damaging to parts of the body.

Although Vitamin C can't cure colds, or even prevent them for that matter, we do need a daily supply of at least 60 milligrams for growth and maintenance of our body tissues for maximum resistance against infection and diseases.

How do you get this recommended daily allowance of Vitamin C? Six ounces of orange or grapefruit juice supply the total amount needed daily. A whole orange or a whole grapefruit also provide more than the daily Vitamin C requirement. Of course, you can obtain this essential vitamin from a wide variety of fruits and vegetables (tomatoes, broccoli, and berries, to name but a few). But right now, there is a good quantity of citrus, and it is being sold at special prices which makes it your best buy for your Vitamin C needs.

ALPHA BETA Best for Less!

MEATPACKER—Farmer John Thompson of Flossmoor, Ill., poses in front of one of his nine antique steam locomotives. High cost of storing and restoring engines and rolling stock have forced him to put three of the units on the auction block. Thompson thinks he will get $10,000 to $20,000 each.

Heart pacemakers, cheaper, better

HOUSTON (UPI) — Improved, longer lasting heart pacemakers will give the patient a better chance of survival and cut the cost of the expensive instruments, according to several specialists.

The cost of pacemakers now runs about $162 a month, a small price to pay for longer life, according to Dr. William M. Chardack, associate professor of surgery at the State University of New York in Buffalo.

He said pacemakers, which help a malfunctioning part of the heart work properly, are much cheaper than such instruments as kidney dialysis machines which cost $11,000 a year.

"But you must understand what you buy," Chardack said Monday. "You buy a life expectancy that is within 5 per cent of ordinary people matched in terms of age and sex."

Chardack, attending the American College of Cardiology conference, said conventional pacemaker batteries last an average 25 months, new zirconmercury batteries are expected to last an average five years and nuclear powered instruments are predicted to last at least 20 years.

One reason longer lasting batteries and electronic components are needed, he said, is every operation to repair a pacemaker or replace a battery endangers the patient. The chances of infection or other complications are enhanced with each operation, he said.

Chardack said the average age of patients receiving pacemakers is 70 and nuclear pacemakers are not economically feasible for persons that age. The higher cost of those instruments would be more practical for a younger person, with a life expectancy of more than 20 years.

Dr. Leonard S. Dreifus, professor of medicine at Thomas Jefferson University in Philadelphia, said without the pacemakers half of those needing it will die within one year.

Dreifus said if conventional batteries last 30-36 months, the patient saves nearly $6 a month over the replacement cost and if the battery lasts 36-48 months the patient can save up to $23 a month.

Dr. William S. Soney Jr., associate professor of surgery at Vanderbilt University Hospital said a study showed the average cost of a pacemaker is $102 per month for the life of the patient, including all surgical and monitoring costs.

'I didn't watch everybody'

Nixon accepts part of coverup responsibility

NEW YORK (UPI) — Former President Richard Nixon says he was partially to blame for the events culminating in his resignation because "I was so busy I just didn't take the time to watch everybody," the National Enquirer reported Monday.

Nixon's comments were contained in an article written by what the paper said was "an old friend" of the ex-President and his family, who paid a twohour visit to Nixon last Jan. 24 at Nixon's home in San Clemente, Calif. The Enquirer said the friend "requested that his identity be withheld."

The story quotes Nixon concerning Pesident Ford, life at the oceanside estate where he sometimes has to answer the telephone becaus of a reduction in staff, his legal expenses and the years in the presidency.

About his August resignation, Nixon was quoted as saying, "I did the best I could. Some of it was my fault.

"I was so busy that I just didn't take the time to watch everybody. I never thought much about being loved. I just did the best I could," he said.

Of his successor, President Ford, the Enquirer reported that Nixon said, "I picked him because I felt he was the best man and because he had the support of the Congress."

The ex-President said that his legal fees for non-Watergate related matters have run to almost $500,000.

Commenting that he sometimes has to answer one of three phone lines at what was once known as the Western White House, Nixon said, "Expenses have been cut to the bone." He said, though, that he believes most Americans mistakenly think he continues to live "in splendor."

Despite his resignation, Nixon said he has received more than a million pieces of mail, "overwhelmingly in my support."

"I've been unable to reply personally to each and every letter because my staff is so small and overworked," he said.

About his return to private life, two years after his landslide victory, Nixon was quoted by the newspaper as saying, "I have no feelings of bitterness. I'd rather look at the good things we accomplished during those years."

The article also quoted Nixon as saying that his difficulties have brought him and his wife Pat closer together.

"I get strength from her," he was quoted. "She's at peace with herself. I don't know what history will say about me, but I know it will say that Pat was truly a wonderful woman. There couldn't have been a greater First Lady."

The article also quoted Pat Nixon as saying that she spends most of her time "working with my flowers."

Concerning Nixon's physical appearance, the article said, "Nixon's face is thinner now, his hair greyer. His eyes aren't as bright and battling as they once were but they're still piercing. His old self-assured walk has been replaced by a noticeable limp."

WINNER OF a Freedom's Foundation Leadership award for his work with youth, was actor Hugh O'Brian. He was given the award earlier this week at Valley Forge, Pa. O'Brian operates the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation. Among other receipients was President Gerald Ford at Monday ceremonies.

Wars...

persons have been killed in that period.

BURMA — A increasingly active Communist guerrilla movement and a number of rebel ethnic groups. Shans, Mons, Karens, and others, mainly in eastern and northeastern Burma, have been fighting the central government for years. The rebels are fragmented and have not yet posed a serious threat to the regime of Gen. Ne Win, but the Communists in the far north may grow more powerful in the future and are well-disciplined.

THAILAND — Diplomats estimate that 7,000 Communist insurgents, some with training in China and North Vietnam, conduct sporadic attacks in northern Thailand. The Thai army, with U.S. aid, has strengthened its forces to deal with the threat, but diplomats say the insurgents potentially could pose a serious problem.

MALAYSIA — Between 600 and 2,000 armed Communist rebels operate in the jungles along the border between Malayasia and Thailand. Diplomatic observers say the movement is not a threat to the Malay government, but the rebels still make themselves felt by attacking isolated construction projects.

TAIWAN — Nationalist and Communist Chinese are still exchanging artillery fire every other day in what is sometimes described as "the forgotten war" in the Formosa Strait. The shells contain only propaganda material and are aimed at uninhabited areas on small islands in the straits, but every once in a while a farmer gets hurt.

RHODESIA — The Rhodesian white supremacist government is negotiating for a peace settlement with black liberation movements that infiltrate guerrillas from neighboring African nations. Over 700 persons have died in the three-year bush war.

ARGENTINA — The Argentina army conducts periodic sweeps, searching for rebels of the Marxist People's Revolutionary Army and the Montoneros, the left-wing of the split Peronist movement whose conservative faction is now in power. Nearly 200 persons died in political violence, including sporadic guerrilla clashes, last year and there has been no letup of fighting so far.

MALAGASY — A lingering feud between lowlanders and highlanders on the Texas-sized island of Malagasy, a former French colony 250 miles off the coast of Africa, burst into shooting violence Tuesday. One military ruler was assasinated after only six days in office, and the future of the succeeding military junta is uncertain. Rebel troops surrendered last week.

Science easier because of TV

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — The basic concepts of science become comprehensible and fascinating with the help of advanced photographic techniques in a new school television course for the lower elementary grades.

Ten programs in the series, First Films on Science, are available from the Agency for Instructional Television. They were produced by the Mississippi Authority for Educational Television in Jackson. The agency is a nonprofit American-Canadian organization established in 1973 to strengthen education through television.

Main offices are in Bloomington. Regional offices are in Washington, D.C., Atlanta, Milwaukee and San Francisco.

She sues over squeak in bed

LONDON (UPI) — The Marchioness of Reading is suing a moving company because her antique four-poster bed has developed a squeak.

The bed, built for a mansion, had to be sawed in half to get it through a bedroom door in the Marchioness' new downtown apartment. It was rejoined with wooden pins.

The Marchioness said it now has an irritating squeak.

She is suing for $600 which she says is the cost of having the bed restored to a squeakless state.

Can't even get arrested right

Great train robber wants to do an honest day's work

By STAN LEHMAN

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Britain's Great Train Robber is alive and well and living in Rio de Janeiro.

But he is having great trouble getting an honest job—as a matter of fact, he even had trouble about getting arrested.

Brazil would like to deport him, but can't find a suitable country to take him.

And Biggs says he's broke, partly because of his honest trust in a crooked investor.

Ronald Biggs, now 45, was sentenced to 30 years imprisonment in 1964 for his part in the $5.7 million British postal train robbery in 1963.

RONALD BIGGS

He escaped from the maximum security Wandsworth prison in July, 1964, made his way through Europe and underwent plastic surgery to change his appearance.

At the end of 1965 he landed in Australia, where he lived for four years. In 1969 he left Australia and after brief stops in Panama and Venezuela arrived in Rio.

Biggs' wife and their two sons, Chris, 12, and Farley, 7, still are in Australia.

The former train robber was arrested in Rio on Feb. 1, 1974 after four years of working as a carpenter and interior decorator in Brazil under the name of Michael Haynes. He claims he wanted to give himself up and agreed to sell his story to London's Daily Express, which he says doublecrossed him by informing Scotland Yard.

"Actually, it's been a year since I let it be known that I was in South America and that I wanted to give myself up," he told UPI in an interview. "I wanted to put an end to my life on the run.

"It's been a year now, and I still haven't been able to do an honest day's work. I have no desire to do any dishonest work, and I am not able to do any honest work."

Whenn Biggs' whereabouts became known British detectives flew to Rio de Janeiro and arrested Biggs, but the Brazilian government blocked his exit from the country and placed him under preventive detention pending extradition.

Britain's extradition request was denied due to a lack of a treaty between Brazil and Britain.

Biggs was ordered deported last May 16, but a Federal appeals court ruled that he could not be deported to England or to any other country with an extradition treaty with England.

As Brazil looked for a country that would accept Biggs, his Brazilian girlfriend, Raimunda Nascimento de Castro, 27, gave birth to his child, now five months old.

With the case snarled in legal red tape, Biggs was given conditional freedom.

"I am still under an order of deportation," Biggs said. "At the moment I am suspended in mid-air, not knowing on what side of the net I am going to fall."

A spokesman at the Justice Ministry told UPI that the government has been looking for a country that would accept Biggs, but so far the countries contacted have demanded reciprocity, something the Brazilian government has refused to grant.

"I am leading a very happy life in spite of the fact that I am having money problems," Biggs said in describing his life in Rio.

"Fortunately I have this little rat hole (a small one room apartment in Copacabana) where I can sort of do my own thing. But even so, it costs something, and so does food, and without resorting to TV and magazine interviews, I would be right up the creek."

Biggs said he was in debt about $1,000, which he borrowed from friends to pay his rent and maintain Raimunda and the baby.

Asked about his approximately $250,000 share of the train robbery, Biggs said he spent a lot of it after his escape.

"I also invested a large portion of the money with a crooked investor. People were going to receive loans and the money would grow and grow. But, the guy, who enjoys a very comfortable position in society, just kept the money."

In spite of all the problems, Biggs says he is happy and relaxed.

"One of my greatest joys at the moment is, of course, the fact that I have been able to live under my own name for the past year. The secret is out. It's like having some kind of psychological hangup. Once you get it out and express it, it's just great. Now that I can use my true identity again, it's like being reborn."

Biggs said he would like to make Brazil his permanent home and has no desire to return to England.

"I feel no sort of homesickness, certainly not for England. If I had any homesickness at all, it would be for Australia and my wife and kids."
